Just 9.4% seats to Yadavs in SP's first list for UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

UNDER attack from the ruling BJP for distributing party tickets 'under the table' but not making the names public, the Samajwadi Party on Monday released a list of 159 candidates for the first three phases of polls in Uttar Pradesh on February 10, 14 and 20.

As expected, party chief Akhilesh Yadav is the candidate from Karhal in Mainpuri district. While sitting MLA Nahid Hasan has been renominated from Kairana, the SP's Rampur MP Azam Khan has been fielded from his pocket borough of Rampur. Both Hasan and Azam Khan are in different jails.

The party again fielded Azam Khan's son Abdullah Azam from Suar in Rampur. Abdullah's election was declared null and void by the Allahabad High Court in the previous Assembly (2017) on charges of forging age documents.

Having woven a bouquet of alliances with smaller OBC outfits for the first time to woo the non-Yadav OBCs, the SP walked the talk by giving them 48 seats (30%). Interestingly, just 15 (9.43%) in the list of 159 are Yadavs. However, the party treaded cautiously in signalling the minority vote bank and drawing Dalits by giving both Muslims and SCs a respectable chunk of 31 (19.5%) and 29 (18.23%) seats, respectively. Besides, nine Brahmins and Baniyas each as also seven Thakurs have been fielded.

One name that stands out in the list is of Umar Ali, the son-in-law of Maulana Ahmed Bukhari, the Shahi Imam of Jama Masjid in Delhi. Umar will contest from Behat on the SP ticket. The other big name is Shivpal Yadav, uncle of Akhilesh and chief of Pragatisheel Samajwadi Party-Lohia. Shivpal will contest from his traditional seat and Yadav family bastion Jaswantnagar in Etawah district on the SP symbol.

The party has accommodated 18 turncoats — 7 from BJP, 9 from BSP and 2 from Congress. BJP defector Dharam Singh Saini has been fielded from Nakur though the import from Congress, Imran Masood, badly wanted it. They have since patched up. Another BJP defector Swami Prasad Maurya failed to get a seat for his son Utkrisht from Unchahar.

Black Monday wipes out ₹9 lakh cr investor wealth

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

INVESTORS in Indian stockmarkets lost a whopping ₹9.07 lakh crore on Monday as key indices fell for the fifth straight day in tandem with the meltdown in global shares.

The Sensex slipped 1545.67 points or 2.6% to end at 57491.51 points on Monday, while the broader Nifty shed 468 points to close at 17149.10, led by foreign institutional investors selling ₹3,752 crore worth of shares and domestic investors buying just ₹75 crore of shares.

Some buying at the lows helped the Sensex to close 507 points above the day's low while the Nifty closed 151 points above its intraday low.

Such was the ferocity of the fall that all of the Sensex's 30 constituents ended in the red and just two of the Nifty 50 shares closed in the green.

The FIIs have sold shares worth ₹12,543 crore in the calendar year to date and ₹42,534 crore in the fiscal year so far.

Relentless selling by foreign portfolio investors amid a rise in global inflationary expectations and fears of a rate hike by the US Fed is behind the 1200-plus fall in the Nifty since January 17. The combined loss of investors over the past five days is a massive ₹19.5 lakh crore.

Global markets are likely to remain choppy this week in view of rising geopolitical tensions between Russia and US-led Nato over Ukraine.

Bommai appoints dist ministers, keeps B'luru

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

WEIGHING the pros and cons, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday appointed district in-charge ministers but kept Bengaluru city for himself ahead of the BBMP polls, likely after April. Bommai has made the appointments nearly six months after assuming charge as chief minister. He is likely to keep the momentum going with several similar exercises, but in consultation with the party's central leadership, sources said.

The ministers have not been given charge of their home districts in what is regarded as a strategic move to curb bickering within the party locally. It is also said that it is to check some ministers from switching parties ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls and not to allow them to build a clout of their own on their home turfs.

Interestingly, Revenue Minister R Ashoka and Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhu Swamy have been ignored. While Ashoka's exclusion has raised many eyebrows, Madhu Swamy's soured relations with Tumakuru leaders, including Lok Sabha member GS Basavaraju, proved costly for him, sources said.

A video of Basavaraju whispering to Urban Development Minister Byrathi Basavaraj that "if Madhu Swamy continued as district minister, BJP will not win even a single seat in the district" went viral and reached the party high command as well, the sources said. P4

Herbivore report to be released with tiger census

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE tiger census, which is going on in Karnataka since Saturday, is crucial as it will not only indicate the population of the national animal and conservation efforts, but also present an assessment of mega herbivores.

Apart from the tiger numbers this time, the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change will also release a report on the estimate of elephant and for the first time of Indian gaur (bison) populations.

Herbivores, especially gaurs, play a crucial role in tiger assessment. A forest department official said that gaurs are a prime prey for tigers and their population estimation gives an indication of the tiger population and vegetation. The forest habitat, vegetation and conservation measures can be assessed by knowing gaur population, he added.

"Three years ago, the population of gaurs was on the rise and healthy herds with aggressive bulls and young calves could be sighted. It was a good sign as sighting a gaur had become a matter of chance till then," he said. P5

e-Sahamati will verify student records

All examination data will be uploaded in National Academic Depository

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru:

HIGHER Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan launched the 'e-Sahamati' initiative on Monday, besides the Unified University and College Management System's (UUCMS) examination-related software.

The 'e-Sahamati' initiative will help organisations and institutions verify the authenticity of a student's academic records. The initiative allows for aggregating all examination-related data of a student in the National Academic Depository (NAD). The student's data, including credits and marks cards for each semester, will be encrypted and uploaded to Digilocker to make it easily and more securely accessible to students and institutions.

Similarly, UUCMS's examination software, which was demonstrated on Monday, is the third of 10 UUCMS modules that have been launched so far, besides the admissions and academics monitoring modules. UUCMS was implemented to universalise and digitise governance for all Karnataka colleges and universities. "UUCMS's examination activity software will benefit lakhs of higher education students across the state and save Rs 60 crore which universities used to spend for outsourcing exam-related works," he said.

He also mentioned that the remaining modules would be rolled out phase-wise by June 2022. "Besides helping to reduce examination fees, the software facilitates digital evaluation, online examination and managing practical batches. It will also digitise the processes of paying examination fees, and obtaining hall tickets and marks cards," he said, adding that the software would help eliminate fake marks cards while being flexible enough to give universities the ability to specify their own norms.

He said the software was designed keeping in mind provisions put forth by the National Education Policy 2020, especially the aspect of multiple entry, exits, keeping track and awarding relevant certificates to those who wish to discontinue their programmes.

PANDEMIC BLUES

CASE SURGE PUTS THE BRAKES ON KIA AIR TRAFFIC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DOMESTIC passenger traffic at Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) has dipped due to soaring Covid-19 cases coupled with the new Omicron variant, after beginning to record rapid growth in 2021.

An official release on Monday by airport operator Bangalore International Airport Limited (BIAL) said that travel restrictions across the globe and seat capacity ceiling had resulted in international passenger traffic shrinking to 0.94 million last year from 1.12 million in 2020. Domestic passenger traffic had grown by 22 per cent last year, compared to 2020, to 15.2 million from 12.39 million, fuelling high expectations for 2022.

"The positive environment in 2021 ignited hopes for a better 2022 in terms of recovery. However, the recent outbreak of the new Omicron variant followed by a rapid surge in Covid-19 cases is expected to suppress growth further," said BIAL CEO, Hari Marar, in a statement. "We believe that air traffic will eventually recover. However, the pace of recovery will depend on factors such as favourable policies by regulators and easing of travel restrictions across the country and globe," he added.

In one of the leanest years in terms of flyers, KIA's daily average of passengers this week (January 17 to January 23) stood at around 32,000, an official spokesperson said. "The December average was between 70,000 passengers and 75,000 passengers," he said. BIAL had then expressed optimism of touching its pre-Covid levels of 90,000-plus passengers per day in 2022.

Despite the turbulence caused by the pandemic, KIA recorded its highest-ever cargo tonnage in 2021. It processed an all-time high tonnage of 4,06,688 tonnes (MT), recording a significant growth of 28.6 per cent over 3,16,305 tonnes in 2020 -- 7.2 per cent higher than the pre-Covid tonnage of 3,79,348 tonnes in 2019. In 2021, international cargo recorded 32.8 per cent growth over 2020, while domestic cargo recorded 21.3 per cent growth. The US and Europe continue to be top trade lanes from the airport.

The year also saw significant growth in the number of domestic destinations from 54 (pre-Covid level) to 74, for which enhanced connectivity to tier-II and tier-III cities were responsible. A total of 14 new routes were introduced last year from Bengaluru to Agra, Bareilly, Dibrugarh, Dimapur, Nashik, Silchar, Jamnagar, Jharsuguda, Jorhat, Jaisalmer, Kurnool, Rajkot, Durgapur and Kanpur. Altogether, 20 international destinations are presently covered under the Centre's Air Bubble arrangements.

Women's varsity will not be shut

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan on Monday addressed various issues regarding the state of several colleges in Karnataka, as well as the next step for guest lecturers. He also said that the Akkamahadevi Women's University in Vijayapura would not be shut.

Addressing the row regarding the building of a new campus in Magadi for the Karnataka Sanskrit University, he said the government is firm in its decision to go ahead with its construction. However, he also said the Kannada University in Hampi will receive grants, taking into account the financial status of the exchequer: "Samskruta and Kannada have been together for ages. The government has exhibited utmost priority for the language of the land, and made learning Kannada mandatory in degree classes. But this has been kept in abeyance, as per the interim order of the High Court," he said.

Speaking on issues raised by Kannada activists recently on why there has been a lack of funding for the Kannada University, Hampi, he said the Rs 4 crore cited in funds was income generated from its publishing wing 'Prasaranga', which had taken a hit during the Covid pandemic.

Clarifying that the government does not intend to close down the Akkamahadevi Women's University in Vijayapura, though there are rumours to the contrary, Narayan said, "The government, instead, wants to expand and strengthen it. The government is committed to women-centric issues, but a few are engaged in creating unnecessary rumours."

He also said there are over 60,000 applications for guest lecturers in Karnataka. The next course of action will be decided in the next two days, he added.

Glaucoma cases likely to double by '40

ENS @Bengaluru

WITH the world celebrating January as Glaucoma Awareness Month, Dr Agarwal's Eye Hospitals is conducting various awareness programmes across India. The hospital says that according to current world trends, the number of people afflicted with the disease may double by 2040.

In an effort to help detect early risk factors, the hospital has decided to conduct the programmes on the risk factors of the disorder and promote screening. "In India, millions of people do not have access to qualified eye specialists and eye hospitals in India. The lack of infrastructure and an unequal distribution of eye care facilities in the country are causes for concern. The country needs advanced centres in peripheral areas to enhance the reach of medical interventions and screening the high-risk population," said Dr Neelima Aalap Shah, consultant ophthalmologist at the hospital's Bengaluru branch.

"The risk factors for glaucoma may include the increasing prevalence of chronic conditions like diabetes, cardiovascular diseases, high blood pressure and myopia. Family history may also play a major role," said Dr Shah.

Covid scare: Public barred from Republic Day parade

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MEMBERS of the public will not be allowed at the Republic Day parade to be held at the Manekshaw Parade Ground in Bengaluru owing to the Covid-19 pandemic. Only those with invitations and passes will be allowed to attend the parade, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta told the media on Monday after assessing the preparedness for the event.

While only 200 people have been invited, following of Covid-appropriate behaviour like wearing facial mask and ensuring social distancing is mandatory. Also, those participating in the parade are fully vaccinated and are being tested for Covid-19, he said.

Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot will receive the Guard of Honour and unfurl the National flag.

City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant said security has been tightened in and around the venue. He said 52 CCTV cameras have been installed and a master control room has been set up. Also, 14 teams have been formed as part of the security arrangements.

He said a new practice has been introduced where police teams from other states will be part of the parade. "This year, Andhra Pradesh police team will be part of our parade," he said.

"All Covid norms will be followed and marshals will also be present to ensure rules are not broken. Six KSRP teams and Gardua forces will also be stationed. Traffic restrictions will also be imposed on January 26 in the vicinity of the ground, including Infantry Road and Cubbon Road," he added.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

25th January : A poetic Moon is a perfect indication for everyone in the communications business. If you have things to say, then say them today! Do it earlier rather than later though, for as afternoon turns to evening, there are increasing indications that rising passions could kick commonsense out of the window.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Unexpected obstacles and delays should work to your advantage if they distract you from non-productive and time-wasting courses of action. There is a case to be made for keeping your intentions to yourself - but each situation has to be taken on its own merits.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Quite simply, romantic prospects are excellent and, even if you have the cares of home and job to cope with, you really should make an effort to enjoy yourself more. In love, you may keep your feelings hidden. You might also come to terms with a partner's criticism - given time!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Your confidence is justified but, whatever you do, don't throw caution to the wind. In particular, you should keep a very close watch on financial developments and dubious business deals. The day of reckoning will come sooner than you think, so, be prepared.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You could be rushing ahead with little thought for the past. Old debts, including emotional ones, should now have been settled, and if you're determined to move forward, then before very much longer, you will be free from a whole series of oppressive and inhibiting memories.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The Moon's alignment with your second house of money inevitably brings finance to your attention, yet you're more likely to be concerned with saving or investing for the future than in spending wildly. What's more, you'll do whatever it takes to make a relationship work.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Venus' vivacious alignments enhance your charming assets. Social gatherings are likely to work to your advantage, possibly because, if you take people into your confidence, you'll receive the practical help and advice which you so urgently need.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You're busy, that's for sure, but you could be getting busier. In view of the fact that you've got such a lot on your plate, you should waste no time in bringing old tasks to completion, and initiating projects which have been on your mind for some time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
A series of strategic alignments between Venus, Mars and other planets are forcing you to come out of your shell and take the bull by the horns. Important discussions will go as planned, as long as you stick to your guns. Other people can only give you an honest response if you state what you want as clearly as possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The pace of life continues to be fast, but not necessarily uncomfortably so. The planetary aspects are absolutely superb as far as all domestic changes and family relationships are concerned. But, then, you are owed some extra pleasure, as you know.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
There may be important lessons to be learnt in the coming days, especially about your tendency to let other people take over your life. You may combine assertiveness with tact and sensitivity in all your dealings with critics and rivals - and perhaps win them over to your side.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You can never be absolutely sure of what lies around the next corner. Testing conditions may take you away from steady partnerships and existing arrangements, but capitalise on your talents and take a creative approach to your ambitions and accounts.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Much in your public life depends on how well you get on with other people. Careerwise, you could be in a tricky spot if you've mishandled a relationship. There's plenty of scope for making amends, perhaps by taking the initiative when least expected, and where you can do most good.

Flats make Bellandur a Covid hotspot

Techies, travellers behind spread; educated residents violate Covid restrictions

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

IN a span of 14 days, Bellandur ward recorded 8,004 new Covid-19 cases and has consistently been the ward with the highest number of cases in Bengaluru. As per January 23 figures, it comprises 3.45 per cent of the capital's 2,31,833 active caseload.

As per the Bellandur Ward Decentralised Triage and Emergency Response Committee for Covid-19 management report on Sunday, the areas within the ward with the most cases are Bellandur, Doddakanahalli, Kasavanahalli, Devarabisanahalli and Haraluru.

"Bellandur is the second biggest ward after Horamavu. It has a population of over one lakh. There is a significant floating population, travellers, over 600 apartments, construction workers staying in colonies and IT companies. Clusters are being reported from apartments and this is due to Omicron. It is unlike the Delta variant, which resulted in hospitalisation," said Dr Surendra, health officer, Mahadevapura zone.

Earlier, they sent samples from these clusters for genomic sequencing, but now officials do not see much use for it as Omicron has led to community transmission. As of Sunday, there are 10 active micro-containment zones. On January 17, there were 58 micro-containment zones and four clusters here.

Mahadevapura MLA Aravind Limbavali too pointed to travellers, software companies, apartments and villas as reasons for fast spread of the virus in Bellandur. "If one floor of an apartment block has four Covid patients, the virus spreads to others as residents would have used common areas such as the lift," Limbavali said.

A source said that educated apartment dwellers often do not cooperate with officials and challenge Covid management rules. "They say they are vaccinated, so nothing will happen, and the new variant is not leading to deaths and hospitalisation. This mentality in the third wave is also being seen in areas such as Varthur, Hagadur and Doddanekkundi, where people stay in apartments and villas," said the source, who did not wish to be named.

As per the ward report, phones of 590 Covid-19 patients are unreachable. As for gender-wise data segregation, in the past 14 days, more females (4,308) than males (3,695) have tested positive. With respect to age, the highest number of cases is in the 18 to 45 year age group, with 5,586 patients in this time period.

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said any decision on further relaxations in Covid norms will be taken after a detailed analysis of the situation in the state.

"Various decisions have been taken to tackle Covid. The weekend curfew has been withdrawn. The spread of the pandemic, its trend and condition of the infected are being monitored. Suitable decisions will be taken," said Bommai. He added all aspects, including the number of cases, and the condition of those positive will be analysed, before taking any decision.

Patients don't need negative report after 7 days isolation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A discharge summary or negative test report is not needed for all those who are out of home isolation after seven days, BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said here on Monday.

Clarifying all doubts and addressing the worries of those out of home isolation, Gupta told the media that as per guidelines for home isolation issued by the Union ministry of health and family welfare, it is clearly stated that asymptomatic, those with mild symptoms and others in home isolation, do not need a negative test or discharge report.

Answering a question that companies insist that employees furnish such reports, Gupta said it is not correct, and the authorities will look into the matter. He said the employee can submit a positive test report, after which a seven-day calculation should be done by the company management.

Gupta said if need be, separate directions will once again be issued to clarify and eliminate all doubts.

Baby with rare disorder needs stem cell transplant

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A seven-month-old baby boy in Bengaluru is one among 14 people in the world to have been diagnosed with a rare genetic disease called BENTA. A primary immunodeficiency disorder caused by mutations in the CARD11 gene, it is characterised by spleen enlargement (splenomegalia) and frequent ear, sinus and lung infections early in life. His only chance at survival is a stem cell transplant.

Due to minimal therapeutic intervention available for BENTA disease (B-cell expansion with NF- B and T-cell anergy), the treatment given to Vijayendra is experimental and based on his reactions to previous treatments.

"BENTA has affected 14 people in the world, and Vijayendra appears to be the world's first case diagnosed at an early stage, considering the age and severity. Based on his reaction to previous treatments, we suggest a stem cell transplant, as it is his best chance for survival. Vijayendra urgently needs to find his matching blood stem cell donor," said Dr Stalin Ramprakash, Consultant - Paediatric Haematology, Oncology and BMT, Aster CMI Hospital, who is currently treating him.

DKMS BMST Foundation India, a Bengaluru-based blood stem cell registry, is coordinating the search for a matching donor for the baby. "In India, only 0.04% of the population is registered as potential donors, especially due to lack of awareness, and apprehensions around blood stem cell donation. Almost 70 per cent of patients are dependent on unrelated donors. We encourage people to come forward and register online as potential lifesavers," said Patrick Paul, CEO, DKMS-BMST.

To reach out to people across India, DKMS-BMST has launched a virtual drive where one can register online to save patients like Vijayendra. The link to register for this patient is www.dkms-bmst.org/Vijayendra. Interested citizens aged 18 to 50 can register and fill up an online form, and will receive a do-it-yourself swab kit.

Once a person comes up as a match, blood stem cells are obtained from the bloodstream, using a procedure called Peripheral Blood Stem Cell Collection, which is like blood platelet donation wherein only stem cells are taken. This is a very safe, non-surgical outpatient procedure.

Appealing to the public, Vijayendra's mother Rekha said, "Being a mother, I feel devastated to see my son going through so much pain, and the only way he can survive is a stem cell transplant from a matching donor. It will only take five minutes to register with this simple process."

Party top brass will decide on Cabinet expansion: CM

Polls to 5 states will keep leaders busy; CM to focus on maiden budget

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DESPITE on-and-off clamour, the expansion of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's Cabinet is unlikely to happen any time soon as the BJP national leadership is busy with the ensuing polls to five states in North India, especially Uttar Pradesh, which is crucial for the party. National leaders, including Union Home Minister Amit Shah, have already hit the campaign trail aggressively.

"There are four vacancies in the Cabinet. Naturally, there will be aspirants and there is nothing wrong with that. The top leadership will decide on when and how to go about it. I too have brought it to their attention. I will provide all the details when they call me for discussion," Bommai said on Monday.

Any discussion on the issue is likely to take place only after March 10 when the election results of UP, Punjab, Uttarakhand, Manipur and Goa Assemblies are declared. Besides, preparations for his maiden budget will keep the CM busy, which he will present some time in February.

"In March 2022, exactly a year ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls in Karnataka, either the expansion or even a reshuffle of the Cabinet, based on the performance of the ministers and their loyalty to the party, may take place," said a party functionary.

Reacting to BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel's statement that appointments to boards and corporations will happen next week, Bommai said it depends on the party's decision. "There is no proposal before the CM on the issue of appointments to boards and corporations. The party leadership will examine the issue and submit a report. Action would be taken based on that," the functionary said.

The government may try to placate some MLAs and staunch party loyalists by appointing them to boards and corporations by replacing about 25 incumbent chairpersons who have completed over one-and-half years in office. Already, Revenue Minister R Ashoka, MLCs Laxman Savadi and Nirmal Kumar Surana have held a first round of discussions to shortlist the names on Monday. The shortlisted names, after being discussed in the core committee, will be forwarded to the party president and finally to the CM for approval, the functionary told TNIE.

Meeting didn't discuss cabinet reshuffle, says Umesh Katti

Belagavi: The recent meeting of BJP MLAs and MPs in Belagavi was not a secret one and there was no discussion on cabinet expansion, clarified Food and Civil Supplies Minister Umesh Katti. "We have discussed only how to face the forthcoming zilla and taluk panchayat elections and how to organise the party in the district," he said. A meeting of district BJP leaders, including MP Annasaheb Jolle, Rajya Sabha member Eranna Kadadi, ministers Shashikala Jolle, Katti and some MLAs was held at the residence of Katti in Belagavi a couple of days ago. "There was no discussion on cabinet reshuffle in that meeting. The Chief Minister and party top brass are there to take decisions on a cabinet rejig. We talked only about how to face the forthcoming elections," he said. "The area expansion programme was to delegate responsibility for organising the party during the forthcoming taluk and zilla panchayat elections. The candidates have to be finalised. Therefore, a meeting was held to discuss these issues. Some of the leaders had participated in the meeting while some did not," the minister said and tried to make clear that there was no intention to keep the Jarkiholi brothers out of the meeting. "Nobody is a small or tall leader among us," he said.

Everyone will stick to decision of central leaders, says Eshwarappa

RURAL Development and Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa on Monday said the decision on filling the four vacant ministerial berths will be taken by the party central leaders.

"There are more aspirants for these berths. All the elected MLAs and MLCs are contenders. Representation for various districts and different communities will be the key in deciding the ministerial berths. Once the central leaders decide the names, all others will adhere to the decision," he told reporters.

To a question, Eshwarappa said, "Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai is leading the state in the best way and executing development works across the state. He is handling the Covid-19 situation in the best possible manner."

He also extended his full support to state BJP president Nalin Kumar Kateel, saying that the party has achieved a lot under his leadership, especially in various elections.

"There is no vacancy to the post of state BJP president. Kateel is doing a wonderful job. Under his leadership, the party registered victories in 15 out of 17 bypolls, won the gram panchayat polls in a big way, and also the corporations of Hubballi-Dharwad, Kalaburagi and Belagavi. The party gained an upper hand in the Council too. So, there is no question of change of state BJP president," he said.

To a question, he said he will take up the responsibility of organising the party if the party assigns it.

Cong plans to take up protest for Mahadayi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hubballi

In a bid to woo farmers of North Karnataka, especially the Malaprabha basin, in the run-up to the next Assembly election Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah has vowed to launch an agitation for the Mahadayi river diversion project after the completion of the Mekedatu padayatra.

The Congress padayatra was postponed following the rising number of Covid cases in Karnataka.

On his way to Badami on Monday, Siddaramiah told reporters that the Congress was planning to take up agitation on the issue of Mahadayi, Krishna and proper implementation of Article 371 (J) in Kalyana Karnataka in the coming days. "Discussions are going on at the party forum for a padayatra to press for implementation of the Mahadayi project, but a final decision will be taken after completion of the Mekedatu padayatra," he stressed.

Lashing out at the BJP over delays in implementation of the Mahadayi project, Siddaramiah said, "Former Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa had promised in Hubballi itself to implement the project within 24 hours after coming to power. Then what happened? Did people of the region get water?"

Induct new faces into state cabinet immediately, insists Renukacharya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Davanagere

TAKING a dig at senior ministers in the cabinet, the CM's political secretary and Honnali MLA M P Renukacharya on Monday said that it was he and Basanagouda Patil Yatnal who were instrumental in bringing down the Congress-JD(S) coalition government, led by H D Kumaraswamy, and questioned whether they were not fit to become ministers. "Whenever the BJP has come to power, only some people are becoming ministers," he lamented.

Addressing media persons at Honnali town, he alleged that some ministers are not even receiving phone calls of BJP MLAs.

"If they (indirectly referring to Dr K Sudhakar) have no patience to listen to MLAs, then they are not fit to be ministers," Renukacharya remarked.

He also felt that CM Basavaraj Bommai's cabinet should be rejigged immediately and should not wait till March, as it will give the new ministers about a year's time to showcase their work. While pushing for the inclusion of new faces, he made a case for himself, pointing out that he had held the Excise portfolio earlier.

"Don't I have the capacity to become a minister? Instead of one minister handling multiple departments, if new ministers are given an opportunity, the administration will become robust and the BJP government's image will also improve further," he argued.

On his patch-up with Basanagouda Patil Yatnal, Renucharya claimed that they spoke to each other to settle their differences and decided to unitedly work for the party. However, he refused to give more details.

Jnanendra is Tumakuru dist in-charge minister

THE leadership viewed contributions of the two leaders to the party organisation as negligible and decided to keep them away from district responsibilities, the sources said.

Having already announced a massive package of Rs 2,000 crore for Bengaluru to build infrastructure ahead of BBMP polls, Bommai wants to take control of the capital city, which has 28 Assembly constituencies. But at the same time, he is also keen on keeping Ashoka in his good books and ask him for advice on Bengaluru's affairs, another source said.

Home Minister Araga Jnanendra has been appointed Tumakuru district in-charge as he has to play a critical role of holding back the rank and file when several BJP leaders would, in all likelihood, switch to Congress ahead of the Assembly polls, the sources said.

Earlier, the ministers were given in charge of districts to manage the Covid situation and hoist the flag during national festivals. They have now been appointed as full fledged district in-charge ministers, said an official source from the Chief Minister's Office.

Complete Yettinahole project by Sept, CM tells officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday directed the Water Resources Department officials to ensure completion of the Yettinahole project by September this year, to provide drinking water to people in Kolar and Chikkaballapura districts.

Sources said that during the meeting with senior officers from the Cauvery Neeravari Nigam and Visvesvaraya Jala Nigam to discuss irrigation projects, the CM directed the officials to expedite the pending project.

The project was delayed over land acquisition for Byragondlu (in Tumakuru) reservoir. The government was finding it difficult to acquire land as farmers in two taluks were demanding the same price for their land.

Sources said that during the meeting, the CM directed the officials not to bother about the reduced water storage at Byragondlu as, even if the storage capacity is reduced, they can ensure continuous supply of water.

He directed them to go ahead with the project by acquiring land in Doddaballapur taluk for the reservoir, sources said, adding that this will be a major change in the project as the cost and size of the reservoir will be reduced by 50 per cent.

Giving uniform compensation to farmers in different taluks and districts will put the government in a difficult position in other bigger irrigation projects in the state, sources explained as the government's move to change the plan is likely to be opposed by the opposition parties.

The CM also took the officials to task for handing over the lake-filling works to the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Department and Minor Irrigation Department without proper approval from the government.

After officials insisted that they have not taken such a decision, the Additional Chief Secretary of the department was directed to look into the status of the work and give a report, sources said.

The Integrated Drinking Water Project that was planned by diverting excess rainwater from the Western Ghats to the parched districts, including Kolar and Chikkaballapur, had faced several hurdles for many years.

Power struggle at Kolar med college leads to chaos

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolar

UTTER chaos prevailed at the Sri Devaraj Urs Medical College over issues related to power and succession on Monday. The police resorted to mild lathicharge to disperse people who had gathered in support of one group. During the lathicharge, one person sustained injuries on the head. However, the situation is now under control and additional forces have been deployed in and around the medical college.

The genesis of trouble can be traced back to the death of veteran Congress leader and former Union minister R L Jalappa, who had started various institutions. A dispute has arisen within the family over control of the medical college and hospital. Supporters of one group barged into the college premises, leading to trouble.

According to sources, Narasimha Swamy, former MLA and elder son of R L Jalappa, has claimed that he should be made the college president. He was supported by some family members.

But another group, headed by G H Nagaraj, who is also a close relative of Jalappa, has opposed this, leading to the chaos. Nagaraj is also being supported by some other members of the Jalappa family. They said Nagaraj was elected president unopposed, while Jalappa's younger son Rajendra was elected vice-president and Hanumantharaju as general secretary.

Sources said there are 12 trustees, of whom six have voting powers. Earlier, former chief minister Siddaramaiah was also one of the trustees. Now, his son Dr Yathindra is a trustee.

Kalyana Karnataka rues 'outsiders' as dist ministers

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@ Kalaburagi

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai effected a rejig of district in-charge ministers on Monday, but Kalaburagi, Yadgir, Raichur districts of Kalyana Karnataka are yet to be represented by ministers from those regions. Large and Medium Scale Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani, who was so far in-charge of Covid-19 supervision and flood relief in the district, has now been given charge of Kalaburagi district.

Prabhu Chavan of Bidar district has been made in-charge of Yadgir district and Textiles and Sugar Minister Shankar Patil Munekoppa has been given charge of Raichur and Bidar districts. KKRDB president Dattatreya Patil Revoor, KKRTC President Rajkumar Patil Telkur (both from Kalaburagi district), chairman of Karnataka Water Supply and Drainage Board, Raja Narasimha Naik (Raju Gowda) of Yadgir district and former minister Shivanagowda Naik of Raichur district were strong contenders for the district minister's post.

During his previous visit to Kalaburagi, BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel had promised that in the next Cabinet expansion, the CM will consider accommodating a party MLA from the region. The move, political experts feel, is an indication that Bommai wants to take more time for the Cabinet expansion.

Congress spokesperson Dr Sharan Prakash Patil said that by giving charge of Kalaburagi district to a minister from another district, the Bommai government has clearly shown that it is not concerned about accommodating Kalaburagi representatives in the ministry.

As per protocol, the district in-charge minister has to hoist the National Flag on Republic Day, or a person designated by the government. Confusion has arisen since Munegowda has been appointed as district in-charge minister of Raichur as well as of Bidar, but he can hoist the Tricolour in only one of the districts. Speaking to TNIE over the phone, Additional Deputy Commissioner Sheelwant said the district administration is awaiting guidelines on the issue.

Stalin says will cooperate for highway works

Gadkari had said NHAI was facing issues like sourcing aggregate material, forest clearances

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

TAKING exception to Union Road Transport Minister Nitin Gadkari's remarks on issues faced by the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) in implementing projects in Tamil Nadu, Chief Minister MK Stalin on Monday expressed "surprise" and said his government has put in its best efforts to support NHAI's projects and helped resolve many long-pending issues.

The government gave "very high importance" to NHAI projects as it fully realises the significance of road connectivity for an industrialised State like Tamil Nadu, the CM said.

Speaking at an event on Budget 2022 a few days ago, Gadkari said NHAI was facing major problems in Tamil Nadu. "Road development projects in Tamil Nadu have hit a roadblock due to problems like sourcing aggregate material and forest clearances. I request the CM to cooperate with us," Gadkari had said. Stalin said many of the issues causing delays are legacy issues. Earlier too, Gadkari had written to him and he had replied on the steps taken by his government, the CM said.

Will web-host reports against errant officials: Lokayukta

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Lokayukta Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty on Monday said they have decided to web-host and make public the reports submitted to the government recommending action against errant officials if authorities fail to act on them within four months of submission.

Briefing the media about his achievements in his five-year tenure as Lokayukta, Justice Shetty said honest public servants and elected representatives are safe if powers to prosecute the corrupt under the Prevention of Corruption (PC) Act are with the Lokayukta, an independent body headed by a former High Court judge, than the Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB), which is under the state government led by politicians.

He contended that the Lokayukta can initiate action against ACB if it fails to perform its obligations, as the Lokayukta is still empowered with powers, including its own police wing, to deal with maladministration. "If people file complaints of maladministration against public servants, the Lokayukta can refer them to its police wing for investigation. If allegations are prima facie found true, the Lokayukta can write to the government to entrust the inquiry to it under Section 12(3) of the Karnataka Lokayukta Act or refer it to ACB, under Section 15(3) the Act. If ACB doesn't act, the Lokayukta can act even against ACB. The jurisdiction of disciplinary action continues to be with the Lokayukta," he said.

Waving his assets and liabilities list when asked to declare it, Justice Shetty said declaring assets and liabilities on his own may set a wrong precedent as there are no provisions under the law to do so. "But in my case, it is open for anybody to check. The Directorate of Enforcement (ED) carried out search operations on January 20 and 22 at the business premises and bank lockers of Atlas Jewellery India Limited (AJIL) under Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002, in Mumbai, Bengaluru and New Delhi. "During the course of searches, ED seized Rs 26.59 crore worth of fixed deposits, Indian currency, gold, silver and diamond jewellery," the agency stated in an official release on Monday.

ED had initiated money laundering investigation on the basis of an FIR registered by Thrissur police against Atlas Jewellery, MM Ramachandran and Indira Ramachandran under various sections of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), for cheating South Indian Bank, Round South Branch, Thrissur, Kerala. "With an intention to cheat, they planned and presented forged documents to the bank, and availed a loan worth Rs 242.40 crore on March 21, 2013 and September 26, 2018, and have not repaid the money," the ED added.

Curbs on hijab violate fundamental right: Forum

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Jamaat-i-Islami Hind (JIH), Karnataka has urged the State government to resolve issues that "infringe upon the Constitutional rights of Muslims in the State", said Dr Muhammad Saad Belgami, JIH state president.

Speaking at a press meet in Bengaluru on Monday, Belgami referred to the ongoing issue of wearing of hijab by some Muslim students at the Girls' Government PU College, Udupi, which has run into controversy, and said the "right to choice of dress, practice of one's religious belief is a fundamental and constitutionally guaranteed right, which cannot be denied to any individual. Hijab is an age-old form of modest dress practiced by Muslims and also by various other groups in different names. It has never been an obstacle to identity and progress. To deny the same to the girl students at Udupi and as a result deny them dignity and right to education is highly deplorable," he said.

On the instructions from the Centre on Surya Namaskar on the Republic Day celebrations, Belgami said, "It is a devotional Yoga practice involving prostration to the sun and chanting of hymns. Muslims have been asked not to perform Namaz at the exact time of dawn or dusk to avoid any doubt of resemblance to sun worship. The government should not enforce religious practices of one community on others," he argued.

JIH has also condemned violent incidents at Nargund and elsewhere, and has urged the administration not to allow fringe elements to "politicise and disturb the communal harmony in our state."

Duty of tribunals, courts to award just compensation: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Taking note of a disability suffered by a claimant that has led to his marriage prospects being affected permanently, the Karnataka High Court observed that the mental trauma he has to undergo for the rest of his life is much more than the physical pain he has suffered after the accident.

A division bench of Justices SG Pandit and Anant Ramanath Hegde from the Dharwad Bench enhanced the compensation from Rs 3 lakh to Rs 17.68 lakh to Basavaraj from Haveri with 6% interest from the date of the accident on September 18, 2011.

The court noted that the duty is cast upon tribunals and courts to award just compensation to ensure that the mental trauma is mitigated and the claimant can live with some dignity and find some solace in the monetary compensation.

The 14-year-old student petitioner was walking on the road along with his father when a lorry came from behind and crashed into him. The claimant suffered 40 % permanent disability around his pelvic region and claimed a compensation of Rs 11.75 lakh, while the tribunal awarded Rs.3.73 lakh. The student later approached the HC.

"NOW, gaur population seems to be stabilising. They are a direct prey base for tigers, just like sambar and spotted deer. Their protection too is crucial. We have been told to make note of gaur sightings along with that of elephants," a senior forest official said.

The last elephant census was done in 2017 and the tiger census in 2018. Though the tiger census has been taken up this year, elephants have not been counted. This is not because of the pandemic, but the ministry felt that two separate exercises were not needed as it could be done in one census, the official said. Classification will not be difficult, as the data stored on M-Stripe app has six different forms and columns for formatting and uploading.

"The prey base assessment has always been a crucial part of tiger census as it directly indicates the health of the forest and forage area for the key species (tigers). This is the reason why an assessment of the indicator species is done as it gives an overall view to the planners on what needs to be done and where they lack. Gaurs are a key indicator to the vegetation and habitat. Elephants are crucial as they are not just sensitive to slightest changes in environment but are extremely intelligent. Their regular sightings in one location, migratory path and new locations portray the actual picture of the forest," official said.

NOTHING WRONG WITH CRITICAL EVALUATION OF NATION'S ICONS

Subhas Chandra Bose has always been a topic of subterranean admiration—and debate. As a charismatic figure from our freedom movement, he had a pan-India following surpassed perhaps only by Gandhi. Children were named after him. The mystery around his disappearance and death did no harm to the hero worship, which extended well beyond Odisha, where he was born, or Bengal, where his family roots were. Or indeed, across religions. The man was stridently secular too—his view on the Mughals may not sync well with the contemporary mood, many of his lieutenants were Muslim, and his government-in-exile carried a cussedly Urdu/Farsi name.

What has happened now, on Bose's 125th birth anniversary, is a formal iconisation of a people's hero. The domineering symbolic space he has been accorded—replacing the forgotten Indian soldier—is something he himself may have had qualms over. The spatial significance of the placement cannot be ignored: Netaji, as he was fondly called, is now being installed at the very centre of the Indian republic. As expected, it has sparked a debate. Should an 'eternal light'—a memorial to dead soldiers—be extinguished and merged with a more expansive National War Memorial? Does Netaji or any single individual deserve such a centrality of space?

Every democracy must renew itself from time to time. It must also be able to look critically at its icons—whether Gandhi, Nehru or Patel. Not all their words or actions can go without re-evaluation. In the same way, not all that Bose did is above critical review. Even when his valour and patriotic fervour is celebrated. The other day, Patel was elevated—literally above everybody—with a colossal statue. Now it's a figure of militarism. A nation should doubtless recognise its heroes, but judge the asymmetry: a granite Bose will loom over a central vista where a Sree Narayana Guru, an ascetic reformer who sought to heal society from within, is not allowed in.

DON'T NEGLECT RANJI, GET PRIORITIES RIGHT

It's ridiculous that the richest sports organisation in the country doesn't have the foresight to plan better for India's premier tournament—the Ranji Trophy. Around 600 players, some 300 match officials and of course, 100-odd scorers and other people associated with the red-ball domestic tournament are set to take a big hit this season too. Financially, it would be devastating after last season was scrapped due to Covid. Some of the match officials' sole earning is through officiating the games. Last season, after compensating only the players, the BCCI didn't roll out any packages for officials. Without the long format involving 38 teams, the officials—umpires, scorers, match referees—struggle to eke out a living.

What seems even more baffling is that the BCCI finds enough time to host all other tournaments and certain T20 events twice a year but miraculously cannot conduct the Ranji Trophy. Consider this: hosting part of the Indian Premier League during the peak second wave in India and one-and-a-half IPLs successfully abroad, organising one-day and T20 domestic tournaments in bio-bubbles, and of course conducting two Test series in India too. However, not finding a window for the Ranji Trophy is outrageous. This season, they could have planned meticulously after missing out on last year.

After the advent of T20, the romance for the classical long version is in decline. Motivating players to concentrate on this format where technique and skill matter more than just hitting around the park too has been challenging for coaches and state associations because of the lucrative contracts offered by T20. Under the circumstances, promoting Ranji Trophy is fundamental to the game's progress and survival. Some of the state units have shown a willingness towards hosting the event if the need arises. With the IPL to start by the end of March or early April, the BCCI needs at least 35 days to complete part of the competition and conduct the other half later in the year. The board's reluctance only shows its negligence towards the red-ball premier event because of lack of commercial obligations and monetary benefits. It's time the BCCI gets its priorities right.

Much against what is being written about the offensive nature of the bridge, it actually amounts to a defensive action by the PLA as a result of the new threat that the Indian Army poses

IMPLICATIONS OF CHINA'S BRIDGE ACROSS PANGONG TSO

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps. Now Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

SOUMYADIP SINHA

The new 330-metre-long bridge over the narrowest part of the Pangong Tso in Eastern Ladakh, under construction by China's People's Liberation Army, has caused some consternation on our side. Public knowledge about such things is usually poor because the context is unclear; that is why it is important to know what exactly this is all about.

The Pangong Tso is a massive high-altitude lake on the East Ladakh plateau at an average height of 15,000 feet. It is 134 kilometres long and has a maximum width of five kilometres. About 50% of the lake supposedly lies in Tibet with 40% in Eastern Ladakh and 10 km is claimed by both India and China. It's a military obstacle, meaning that operations from one side to the other can only be done by deliberate bridging or by other means of obstacle crossing. It means that when the PLA was transgressing in the Fingers complex on the north bank of the lake, the Indian Army could not physically interfere or conduct operations such as reinforcement or counter-attacks, from the south bank. Any response would mean swinging around the lake on our side and accessing the north bank. A major time penalty would occur, allowing consolidation time if it wishes to do the transgression again. Alternatively we would have to pre-position troops in fair strength, to cater to some contingencies.

The above analogy applies equally to the PLA. When the Indian Army decided to occupy the seven unoccupied heights on the Kailash Range on the night of 29–30 August 2020, a couple of things happened. First, the PLA was completely surprised; it did not expect an aggressive act on the part of the Indian Army due to the largely defensive strategy the country has followed vis-a-vis China since 1962. Second, the heights were all on our side of the undemarcated LAC and the occupation gave the Indian Army the distinct operational and tactical advantage of overlooking the Moldo garrison where the headquarters of the PLA exists—a most disadvantageous situation for the Chinese force. Third, the PLA had sufficient troops to deploy in the areas where it had planned to man transgressions along the LAC but insufficient reserves to respond to contingencies; for that it would need to redeploy troops from one sub sector to the other. In other words, on 29–30 August 2020, the PLA was almost exactly in the situation that the Indian Army was when the Fingers complex got transgressed north of Pangong Tso.

The PLA was angry as it was caught napping. It made a few noises by bringing some troops from the Moldo area (right opposite our Chushul area) to threaten our positions with improvised weapons of the Galwan variety. By that time, Indian troops were past masters and psychologically prepared for such an eventuality; they stood their ground without further provocation. For a serious response of a tactical variety, the PLA had to get troops from the north bank, travel almost 12 hours for the 180 kilometres and swing around the lake to get to the south bank where Moldo exists. It was too late; the Indian Army had already consolidated on the Kailash Range heights and only a deliberate counter-attack (an act amounting to war) could evict it from that position of advantage.

Probably seeing red and seething under the pressure from higher headquarters, the PLA has decided to build a bridge across the Pangong Tso at a location where the lake is the narrowest, 17 kilometres from the LAC. The obvious advantage of the bridge is that it will cut the distance from Khurnak in the north to Rudok in the south, obviate a full swing around the lake and reduce the time for response to about two to three hours. The Chinese are constructing this using prefabricated concrete blocks and the classification appears to be good enough to sustain crossing by tanks. The road infrastructure in the Rudok area leading to the Moldo garrison is also being improved to cut response time.

> Does the bridge mean that India has forever lost the capability to reoccupy the Kailash Range heights, which it withdrew from after the mutual disengagement in February 2021? The answer is a clear no and that is because the PLA yet does not have troops available to respond immediately should the Indian Army use stealth for occupation

Does the above mean that India has forever lost the capability to reoccupy the Kailash Range heights, which it withdrew from after the mutual disengagement in February 2021? The answer is a clear no and that is because the PLA yet does not have troops available to respond immediately should the Indian Army use stealth for occupation of perception of invincibility of the PLA and the nation.

A bridge can change a lot no doubt and in this case, the span near Khurnak is definitely strategic in nature. Yet there is another way of perceiving the PLA's action and response as related to the construction of the bridge. In its wildest dreams, the PLA may never have imagined that an offensive quid pro quo action would be undertaken by the Indian Army right under its nose—one that would threaten even the headquarters of the PLA in Eastern Ladakh. It had earlier relegated the security of this area to border guards but ratcheted it up by bringing PLA units to friction points. All these years, it was willing to accept the 10–12 hour time span for moving from north to south Pangong Tso. Now it finds it too dangerous to risk; that is because the Indians have become unpredictable and offensive too. In other words, much against what is being written about the offensive nature of the Pangong Tso bridge, it actually amounts to a defensive action by the PLA as a result of the new threat that the Indian Army poses. China undertook 'initiated friction' as a strategy to coerce India when it commenced its actions in Ladakh in 2020. The Pangong Tso bridge reflects the Chinese intent towards being far more circumspect in the future if it really wishes to militarily coerce India.

RURAL INDIA: AN EXPLORER'S PARADISE, A SEEKER'S TROVE

G KISHAN REDDY

Union Minister for Culture, Tourism and Development of Northeastern Region

Since time immemorial, India has been known as a land of seekers and explorers. Travelling has been more than just a means to unburden oneself, it is a path to wisdom and self-discovery. Our ancient scriptures are full of pearls of wisdom reiterating the importance of travel. The heroes in our ancient epics—Lord Rama, and Arjuna—when exiled, embarked on journeys to previously uncharted territories to observe, learn, assimilate and grow as individuals in the process.

This year, we are celebrating National Tourism Day with a focus on rural tourism, local communities and sustainable living. For millennia, India has drawn from the age-old wisdom of her saints and philosophers, and has harmoniously cohabited with nature. Today, the world calls this sustainable living. Keeping the spirit alive and inspiring the world are villages like Dhaj in Gujarat, India's first eco-village, or God's Own Garden in Mawlynnong, Meghalaya, which has earned fame as Asia's cleanest village. The recent declaration of Pochampally village in Telangana by the United Nations World Tourism Organisation as one of the 'Best Tourism Villages' stands testimony to the scope of rural tourism in India.

Several efforts are underway to further build on this potential and open our rural areas to limitless opportunities. For the first time, India has released a Draft Rural Tourism Strategy, which is giving shape to our efforts. The strategy would not only pave the way for economic development of our villages but also provide a fresh energy to our arts and heritage. Through a holistic and sustainable rural tourism strategy, we have the opportunity to fuse Indian hospitality with breathtaking scenery, a symbiotic relationship with nature, and a rich arts, crafts and cultural heritage that our villages can offer.

Some of these riches that rural areas have to offer are inhabited by the most marginalised such as tribal and forest-dwelling communities. The strategy therefore aims to couple experiential living and activities in a sensitive manner, keeping the dignity of these communities at the centre. Our aim is to empower these communities economically by skilling them and integrating them into the tourism supply chain so that they can run their own eco home stays, operate logistics services, and act as guides, tour operators, etc. This is the prime minister's vision: of looking at tourism as a medium that can deliver welfare and prosperity to local communities that directly benefit from the jobs and development opportunities that it offers.

Over the last seven years, several schemes have been implemented to improve tourism services, infrastructure, capacity and skill. Under the Swadesh Darshan Scheme 1.0, projects worth ₹5,588.44 crore have been implemented, paving the way for a strong tourism ecosystem in the nation. Several rural tourism projects across multiple themes such as Eco Circuit, Himalayan Circuit, Desert Circuit, Tribal Circuit and Wildlife Circuit are helping build robust tourism infrastructure in and around our rural areas. The next version of Swadesh Darshan Scheme will further build on this to give a fillip to eco-tourism projects.

> For the first time, India has released a Draft Rural Tourism Strategy. This would not only pave the way for economic development of our villages but also provide fresh energy to our arts and heritage. Through a holistic and sustainable rural tourism strategy, we have the opportunity to fuse Indian hospitality with breathtaking scenery ...

However, to completely unlock this potential, there is a need for collective action from the Central and state governments and private stakeholders along with the local communities. We are providing an enabling environment for entrepreneurs and thought leaders from within the host communities to curate their villages as exemplary rural tourism hubs. The enthusiasm from the private sector to come forth and establish innovative projects, set up eco-friendly hotels in rural pockets, build capacities of rural artisans, and lend their expertise to local communities shows that there is a clear demand for such experiences.

Today, the world tourism community stands at the cusp of change. Where on one hand the pandemic has pushed the community to rethink travel and alleviate the economic stress, on the other hand, climate change is forcing us to turn towards sustainability. Moving beyond just sustainability, the fraternity is abuzz with concepts such as transformational, positive impact and regenerative tourism. We are witnessing a paradigm shift from an industrial model to a more interdependent, community-oriented and mutually beneficial ecosystem. At this juncture, India has an edge over the world because of our rich cultural heritage and traditional knowledge thriving in our hinterlands. We are now ready to unleash this potential and enlighten our younger generation to the treasure that we hold and also the world at large looking for destinations off the beaten track.

In his Independence Day speech of 2019, Prime Minister Narendra Modi exhorted all Indians to visit at least 15 locations by 2022. Unfortunately, due to the Covid-19 pandemic, this was not possible. However, with more than 160 crore vaccination doses administered, a strengthening of medical infrastructure and a recession of the Omicron variant, there could be an opportunity for travel to resume in 2022 itself. A journey to the rural hinterland to explore the magnificent offerings of our villages could be a worthy resumption to travel. Prospective travellers looking forward to explore this incredible rural India could be well served using this verse from the Aitareya Brahmana of the Rigveda for inspiration: "The feet of the wanderer are like the flower, his soul is growing and reaping the fruit; and all his sins are destroyed by his fatigues in wandering. Therefore, wander!"

Learn from NZ premier

Whether it is our PM, leaders from his own party or for that matter those who are opposed to them, people never see them as role models as all of them can only preach that which they never follow—even when it comes to wearing masks. I think they should all learn from New Zealand PM Jacinda Arden, who has come forward to call off her wedding amid the Omicron outbreak and curbs enforced by her government.

Fraught with risk

This is with reference to No stopping the growth of cryptos (Jan 24) Cryptocurrencies will survive for several reasons. It has become another method to park funds for profit, without fear of being monitored by governments. Even fully aware that investment in institutions that provide abnormal interest is fraught with risk, people will place their money in them out of the desire to earn more. But the government should not encourage speculative currencies.

Indirect bribery

The article In UP, BJP's leaders know only love (Jan 23) clearly exposes the indirect bribery to voters through approved channels like self-help groups and the Kanya Sumangala Scheme by the government. The BJP leaders rule the nation through oratorical skills rather than actions.

News and opinions

I am writing this letter as a mark of appreciation for your newspaper. Yours seems to be one of the few reliable English newspapers left in Odisha and among the last bastions of unbiased information. News in the past decade has descended into a farce due to a few reasons. First, people do not want to pay for their news. Second, the internet serves them the news and opinions that match their ideologies. Third, TV news is now more about entertaining people than informing us. All these prevent people from making their own informed opinions. Let us take a recent example, the news of the Amar Jawan Jyoti being merged with the flame at the War Memorial. You reported the facts as they were and mentioned both the government's rationale behind this decision and the opposition's objection regarding this. But most others didn't. There were liberal news outlets portraying it as a decision to erase history while others told us that those who questioned it were 'anti-nationals'. When news is laced with someone's own opinion, it can only divide people.

Strict screening necessary

The article An attempt to criminalise compassion (Jan 24) has attempted to project the cancellation of licences to some NGOs by the Centre as arbitrary and vindictive. Since many NGOs have engaged in religious conversions and illegal activities using foreign funds, the Centre has rightly tightened the verification process. One hopes it will continue the process of strict screening without surrendering to NGO lobbies.

Modi interacts with Bal Puraskar recipients, calls on youngsters to support Vocal for Local

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

MANGALURU-BASED Bharatanatyam dancer Remona Evette Pereira, Bengaluru's pianist Syed Fateen Ahmed, and Chennai's palaeontologist Aswatha Biju were among the 29 children who were conferred the Pradhan Mantri Rashtriya Bal Puraskar by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday.

In a virtual event, the PM awarded digital certificates through blockchain technology, a secure online connectivity system developed by IIT-Kanpur under a special project. It was the first use of such technology to confer these awards. A cash prize of ₹1 lakh each was also awarded to 15 boys and 14 girls.

Interacting with Pereira, who was flanked by her mother, Modi greeted her not only for her dancing abilities but also on National Girl Child Day. He spoke to her about the many challenges she faced while pursuing dance and complimented her mother, who lost her husband but ignored her adversities for her daughter's dreams.

The PM also spoke with Puhabi Chakraborti of Tripura and Meedhansh Kumar Gupta from Punjab about their Covid innovations and apps.

After interacting with the children, he said that he feels that the government efforts to promote entrepreneurship are bearing fruit, and a tendency to become job providers instead of being job seekers is becoming more pronounced. "Today, we feel proud when we see the youth of India excelling in the world of start-ups. We feel proud when we see that the youth of India are innovating and taking the country forward," he asserted.

Disability no challenge, Rubber Girl sets example

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

ANVI Vijay Zanzarukia is a 13-year-old from Surat. Due to a congenital heart defect, she has 75% intellectual disability. She suffers from other problems too. On Monday, Anvi became a proud recipient of the Prime Minister's National Children's Award. It was presented virtually by Narendra Modi in the presence of the Surat collector.

Despite having undergone an open heart surgery, her inabilities, Anvi has excelled in yogasana. Her exploits has earned her the nickname 'Rubber Girl of Surat'. After taking to yoga three years ago, she has won gold medals in state and national-level championships. In all, she has won 51 medals from 40-plus yoga competitions.

Anvi's parents have always been encouraging and helped her brave extreme odds. Patient and supportive, they made sure their daughter never gave up. "When she was 10, we saw her sleeping with her feet on her head. Seeing this, we thought why not yoga. Soon, she started training under the yoga teacher of her school," said her mother Avni.

Anvi's father Vijay said her daughter will continue to do what she is. "She has expressed a desire to do yoga and Surya Namaskar on the same platform with the PM, who has encouraged Anvi so much. We hope our daughter's next dream will come true."

This is not the first time that Anvi's special ability has got recognition. Last year, she was presented the 'Creative Child with Disability' award given by the Union Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment. It was presented to her by President Ram Nath Kovind.

Medical challenges

Anvi was born with many illnesses. Other than the open heart surgery for the congenital defect and intellectual disability, has Hirschsprung's disease, which affects the large intestine and causes bowel problems.

VULNERABLE SECTIONS HIT BY OMICRON: WHO

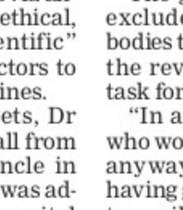
KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

OMICRON is spreading faster than Delta and leading to increased hospitalisations and deaths, particularly among vulnerable populations, in India, World Health Organisation South-East Asia regional head Dr Poonam Khetrapal Singh said.

Omicron, which is now in community transmission in India and has become the dominant variant in many metro cities and spreading to smaller cities as well has a "significant growth advantage, which means it is spreading faster than Delta," the WHO Regional Director told this newspaper in an email. "Higher number of deaths, particularly in vulnerable populations, is expected as cases go up."

India's genomic sequencing consortium INSACO has confirmed that though Omicron cases have been asymptomatic or mild, hospitalisations and ICU cases have increased.

The third Covid wave, propelled by Omicron, saw daily cases increasing followed by a rise in hospitalisations and deaths. In most fatalities, the victims have been those suffering from co-morbidities.



"Omicron has transmissions and has been occurring even amongst those vaccinated or with a history of prior infection. There is increasing evidence that this variant can evade immunity," she said, adding that an increase in cases would lead to increased hospitalisations, which might put an overwhelming demand on the health care system.

On Monday, the number of active cases went up to 22,49,335, the highest in 241 days, while 3,06,064 new infections were also reported. About 439 deaths were reported in the country.

Khetrapal said though data show that Omicron is less severe than other variants of concern, the severity of illness increases with age. Those with underlying medical conditions and the unvaccinated are facing increased hospitalisation and, in some cases, deaths.

"..it remains a dangerous virus, particularly for those who are unvaccinated," she said, adding efforts should be focused on reducing transmission and increasing vaccine coverage, along with stressing on following protective behaviour.

PARLIAMENT TO HAVE STAGGERED SITTINGS

New Delhi: Both the houses of Parliament will have staggered sittings during the budget session due to the spread of Omicron variant. Earlier, several parliament staff had tested positive. The rules will come into effect from February 2. President Ram Nath Kovind will deliver his joint address on January 31. The Rajya Sabha will meet from 9 am while Lok Sabha from 4pm. The budget will be presented on February 1.

'MISSING' INFECTED PEOPLE FACE FIR

Raipur: The administration in Raipur has invoked the Disaster Management Act to lodge an FIR against 19 Covid infected individuals who "intentionally" had gone missing. More such actions will follow as the state administration has declared that those found violating the regulations and restrictions imposed to prevent the spread of viral disease would be booked. "After testing positive, either their phone numbers are unreachable, or are avoiding respond. The Covid control room is preparing a list of such cases," a senior officer said.

	ACTIVE CASES IN INDIA	DAILY RECOVERY RATE	DAILY POSITIVITY RATE	WEEKLY POSITIVITY RATE	CASE FATALITY RATE
JAN 23	21,87,205	93.18%	17.78%	16.87%	1.25%
JAN 24	22,49,335	93.07%	20.75%	17.03%	1.24%

'Covid antibody therapy is unethical & immoral'

NEW DELHI: India's top virologist Dr Gagandeep Kang has described Covid antibody therapy as "unethical, immoral, and unscientific" and urged private doctors to practice better medicines.

In a series of tweets, Dr Kang said she got a call from a 90-year diabetic uncle in Chennai who said he was advised admission to hospital and antibody treatment as he came in contact with someone who tested positive.

"We know that 90 per cent or greater infections are currently Omicron in Indian cities. We know that the licensed monoclonal antibody products in India do not neutralise omicron. Yet doctors in private hospitals are prescribing monoclonal antibody therapy (and admission)," said Dr. Kang.

The government has also excluded monoclonal antibodies treatment for Covid in the revised National Covid task force treatment.

"In any case, all the ones who would have gotten better anyway will do fine — but having given antibodies, doctors will ascribe that to their treatment and the hospitals will laugh all the way to the bank. The argument I hear from well-meaning doctors (thankfully not infectious disease specialists) is that it is only one lakh and my patient can afford to buy it, so why not?"

"Why not? It is unethical, immoral and unscientific," she tweeted. ENS

EC's appointment procedure most defective, says Quraishi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

RAISING questions over the system of appointing the Chief Election Commissioner, former CEC SY Quraishi on Monday said many electoral reforms are pending.

He was speaking at the launch of a book, 'Electoral Democracy? An Inquiry into the Fairness and Integrity of India's Elections'. Released by India International Centre president NN Vohra, the book is a compilation of articles and looks at the election system, while raising critical questions.

"We can't be blind to the fact that people are commenting. Ten years ago, there were headlines like 'Well done EC', and in 2019 there were headlines — some of which I have listed — which are not very complimentary, in fact highly critical," Quraishi said.

DISTINGUISHED VOICE

An IAS officer of the 1971 batch from Haryana cadre, SY Quraishi became the first Muslim to be the CEC in 2010. He has been a votary of electoral reforms for bringing transparency in polls.

"I can only say that whenever I hear criticism of the EC, it comes to me as a slap on my face personally. It hurts and hits me. I wish we did not have to see the kind of headlines we saw recently." Quraishi asserted there are many poll reform proposals pending with the government. "First of all, the appointment system. The most powerful election commission in the world and most defective system of appointment. I have been a beneficiary of the same system. But, believe me, even when I was sitting on the chair, I used to be critical of it. Had a leader of the opposition signed my appointment letter, I would have felt much bolder. Because that would have proven that all parties across the board trusted me. It's very clear that constitutional reform is required."

Former IAS officer and Rajya Sabha MP Jawhar Sircar, who wrote in the book on the Bengal polls, clarified he was not an MP when he wrote his article. He said he has written about the biased role played by the former election commissioner in the state polls.

Justice Madan Lokur, former SC judge, referred to a 1975 order which said free and fair elections are essential part of democracy. "Over the years, people are assured all sorts of freebies. Extravagant promises are made by candidates, perhaps without even intending to keep the promises."

Tata takeover of Air India on Thursday

NEW DELHI: Debt-laden Air India is likely to be handed over to the Tata group on January 27 with the closing balance sheet as of January 20 being provided to the new owner on Monday for its review.

Sources said the final handover date was not finalised but they aim to hand over the airline by Thursday. The remaining formalities are likely to be over in the next few days.

After a competitive bidding process, the Centre had on 8 October last year sold Air India to Talace Private Limited for ₹18,000 crore.

In a message to the employees on Monday, Air India's director (finance) Vinod Hejmadi said the divestment is now decided to be on January 27. "The closing balance sheet as on 20th Jan has to be provided today 24th Jan so that it can be reviewed by Tatas and any changes can be effected on Wednesday," he said. ENS

Assam, Nagaland ready to settle border disputes out of court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

AFTER preparing a "roadmap" towards resolving its boundary dispute with Meghalaya pending the Centre's approval of the same, Assam is set to initiate a similar process with Nagaland.

Nagaland Chief Minister Neiphiu Rio told reporters in Kohima that the two states favoured an out-of-court settlement of their boundary dispute. He said they would try to resolve the row in consultations likely to begin next month with Union Home Minister Amit Shah. Assam has always favoured an out-of-court settlement of its disputes with the neighbours.

Rio's statement comes a day after he met Sarma in Guwahati. The two had met in Jorhat in December last year where they discussed issues of mutual interest.

Sarma had tweeted about his latest "fruitful discussion" with Rio, stating that a discussion was held on issues of mutual interest, people's welfare in both states and strengthening friendship.

Assam and Nagaland, which have been embroiled in a bitter border row for decades, share a 512.1 km border and a case pertaining to the dispute is pending in the apex court. Last year, they had withdrawn security personnel from two disputed sites to de-escalate tension after a standoff.

Last month, Sarma had exuded confidence on the settlement of border disputes with Meghalaya and Arunachal Pradesh. He had stated his government would consult various organisations and political parties before taking any decision.

FISCAL PLAN

Big budget hike likely for revenue-hit Rlys

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

STRUGGLING to cope with revenue shortfall from passenger services in 2021-22, Indian Railways is expecting enhanced budgetary outlays in this year's railway budget, scheduled to be presented along with the general budget on February 1.

According to sources, an increase of around 100% is expected, for infrastructure requirements and other projects. The Centre had made an allocation of around ₹1.10 lakh crore in the railway budget of 2020-21. For 2022-23, this could be more than ₹2.50 lakh crore to meet new requirements under the National Railway Plan 2030.

"The railways has also decided in principle to work out for four new high-speed rail corridors apart from the eight already sanctioned projects. For these, a sea of earmarked fund would be required," said a senior railway official, preferring anonymity.

FOCUS AREAS

Focus is also expected to on hyper loop technology to run trains through tunnels in addition to the bullet train facility. There could also be allocation for developing railways networks in N-E.

The railways had suffered a colossal loss of around 26,338 crore from passenger services last year due to the Covid-19 crisis, so increase in budgetary allocation is unavoidable this year. As the railways mulls creation of more freight corridors to increase earnings from freight services, a separate hiked allocation is also expected this time.

The railways is also expecting the government to create more avenues for promoting the PPP mode and participation of private players. Plus, there is thrust on Railways to be the world's first green railways by replacing all conventional sources of energy by solar power.

"Around 7,000 stations are to be fully equipped with solar power generating panels. Side by side, 100% railway track electrification is targeted by 2030. For all this, substantial increase in allocations is expected," said the source.

'Explore Netaji in Taiwan'

New Delhi: Taipei Economic and Cultural Centre's deputy representative Mumin Chen has offered Indian scholars and historians to use Taiwan's archives to trace the disappearance and legacy of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose. "With India and Netaji we have historical connections. In the 1940s, Chaing Kai-Shek (former President of China) mentioned Netaji in his diary," Chen added. "A lot of historical documents and evidence on Netaji and the Indian Independence movement are available in Taiwan. Not many Indian scholars are aware of it."

Slain vendor's daughter finds 'father' in MLA

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

NEARLY four months after her father was killed by militants in Srinagar, Nitu Kumari tied the nuptial knot with a banker late on Sunday evening, thanks to the promised help from BJP MLA Lalan Paswan.

The Pirpainti MLA not only bore the expenses on the wedding but also performed the rituals with his wife Gunjan Devi. The four-day wedding rituals were performed at the Barahat residence of the MLA, who broke down after bidding adieu to the newly-wed couple on Monday.

While the bride is doing her graduation from a local college, the groom, Rajendra Kumar Paswan, is employed as a field officer in a private bank. The 'baraat' had arrived from Birnia Balbadda village in neighbouring Jharkhand. The ring ceremony was held at Kahalgaon in Bhagalpur at the initiative of the legislator on December 11 last year.

"The day I visited the house of slain gol-gappa vendor Virendra Paswan in Bhagalpur district in October last year, I had promised his widow to bear the expenses of two of the three unwed daughters. I consider them as my family members and have been trying to live up to their expectations on all fronts," the MLA said.

Virendra was shot dead on October 5 last year.

"Vidhayakji (The MLA) is like God for us. We were in tatters after the death of my father, a vendor away in J&K, who barely eked out a living for a family of seven," Nitu said.

The wedding was held without any dowry. Only selected guests were invited to the function keeping in mind the pandemic.

Virendra's elder son Vikram Kumar was also grateful to the lawmaker. "I have no words to express my gratitude to the MLA for his support."

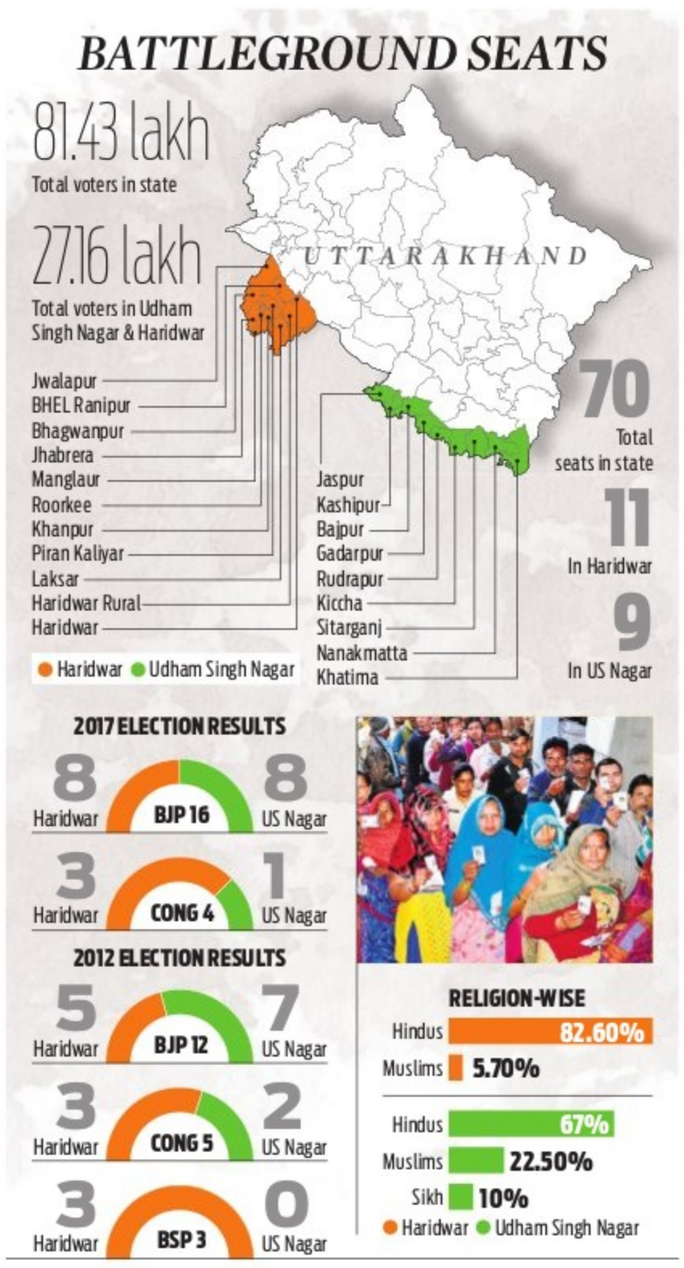
BJP ally Manipur's NPP releases first list

Imphal/Shillong: The National People's Party (NPP) on Monday announced its first list of 20 candidates for Manipur assembly elections with three sitting MLAs, including Deputy Chief Minister Y Joykumar Singh, contesting from their sitting seats. The party, which is currently in alliance with the BJP, is going it alone in the upcoming polls and has fielded candidates against its ally in all the seats it is contesting. NPP's Manipur unit president L Jayantakumar Singh and N Kayisii will seek re-election from Keisamthong and Tadubi assembly segments.

UTTARAKHAND'S C-20 MATCH

Twenty constituencies in Udham Singh Nagar, Haridwar districts hold the key to power



VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

CALL it the C-20 match of Uttarakhand, but 20 constituencies out of the total 70 in the state, 11 in Haridwar and nine in Udham Singh Nagar districts, are likely to decide which way the state swings in the ongoing elections.

When the BJP elevated Pushkar Singh Dhami as Uttarakhand CM and Madan Kaushik as the party chief in July last year, the party leadership had one thing in mind: Assembly polls in which Haridwar and Udham Singh Nagar districts will play a decisive role.

While Dhami comes from Udham Singh Nagar and Kaushik from Haridwar.

If the BJP wants to retain power in the February polls, experts say, the party will need to repeat its performance of winning 16 out of 20 seats in Haridwar and Udham Singh Nagar districts or even better it.

In 2017, the BJP won eight out of 11 seats in Haridwar and eight of the nine seats in Udham Singh Nagar, scoring an unprecedented 57 seats in the 70-member Assembly.

Yogesh Kumar, Dehradun-based political analyst said, "This time the BJP's slogan 'Abki Baar 60 Paar' won't be possible without a 2017 redux in the two districts; both having 20 seats." This was an example of Brahmin-Thakur vote bank dominating the state politics with at least 60 per cent of votes in the state – 25 per cent belonging to the Brahmin and 35 per cent to the Thakurs.

In 2017, the BJP launched itself into an aggressive campaign in these two districts with Prime Minister Narendra Modi leading the charge in both districts. The PM's rallies in both the districts are believed to have contributed to the rout of the Bahujan Samaj Party and independents.

Then Chief Minister Harish Rawat had chosen to contest from both the districts. Rawat contested from Kiccha in Udham Singh Nagar and Haridwar (Rural) in Haridwar.

The BJP had also brought in Yogi Adityanath in 2017. This was before the party chose him as the UP CM. Yogi's public rally in Kiccha is said to have resulted in Rawat losing the seat by only 2,127 votes.

Residents of the two towns recall how BJP managed to pull off impressive wins. "The seat was clearly a win for Harish Rawat, but Yogi's rally changed the equation. Rajesh Shukla won with a slim margin, dampening the prospects of Harish Rawat as well as the Congress," said Harsh Taneja, an Udham Singh Nagar resident.

In Haridwar (Rural) Harish Rawat lost to the BJP's Swami Yatishwaranand by a margin of 12,278 votes. This time, the Aam Aadmi Party has chosen its state president from US Nagar district SS Kaler to fight against Dhami from the Khatima seat of the district.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal and deputy CM Manish Sisodia had visited US Nagar and Haridwar multiple times, promising jobs, monthly allowances, attending 'Ganga aarti' in Haridwar to make inroads in both the key districts.

With Yashpal Arya rejoining the Congress, the party is looking for a headway in the polls.

BJP to contest in 65 seats in Punjab as final list out

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

The BJP-led coalition for the Punjab elections announced its final list on Monday. Party president J P Nadda with BJP getting the maximum number of seats.

Of the total 117 seats in the state, BJP gets 65 seats, while Amarinder Singh's Punjab Lok Congress (PLC) will contest in 37 seats, and the Sukhdev Singh Dhindsa-led Shiromani Akali Dal (Sanyukt) will field candidates in 15 seats.

> Punjab needs special attention. Security is a very important issue. This election is for stability and safety. Our motto is to bring back Punjab on track
> JP Nadda
> BJP president

BJP president J P Nadda announced the seat sharing agreement at a press conference at the Delhi BJP headquarters in the presence of Punjab Lok Congress supremo Amarinder Singh and Shiromani Akali Dal (Sanyukt) Sukhdev Singh Dhindsa. Later in a tweet, Nadda wrote, "Punjab needs special attention. Security is a very important issue. This election is for stability and safety. Our motto is to bring back Punjab on track."

The state had been witnessing major political turmoil since the end of 2021 which led to the resignation of the then Congress CM Amarinder Singh in September last year. Later Amarinder floated the new political outfit.

The Arvind Kejriwal-led Aam Aadmi Party has already declared Bhagwant Mann as its CM face.

The elections in the state will be taking place in a single phase with casting of votes scheduled on February 20. It was earlier fixed for February 14 but was postponed. The counting will be done on March 10 with the results coming out the same day.

In 2017, it was Congress which had won 77 out of the 117 seats after defeating the erstwhile ruling alliance of the Shiromani Akali Dal and the BJP pushing them to the third place with only 18 seats. The AAP became the official opposition in the assembly by ranking second largest party by winning 20 seats.

Kanhaiya among Cong UP star campaigners

New Delhi: Former Jawaharlal Nehru University student union president Kanhaiya Kumar, Group-23 leaders of Congress – including Ghulam Nabi Azad and Bhupinder Hooda – along with the Gandhis have been named as star campaigners for the UP assembly elections. The first phase of election in the state is scheduled on February 10. These leaders will participate in door-to-door campaign and hold small rallies as permitted by the Election Commission in the wake of Covid. Rajasthan CM Ashok Gehlot and Chhattisgarh CM Bhupesh Baghel will also campaign in the state.

Oxford graduate, Rampur royal and NDA's first Muslim candidate in UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

RUBBISHING the perception of not fielding any Muslim candidate, the NDA on Monday announced Haider Ali Khan in the Suar assembly constituency, the stronghold of Azam Khan, the jailed SP MP from Rampur. The alliance has put its bet on the Rampur royal family scion pitting him in a direct contest with Abdullah Azam, the son of Azam Khan.

Abdullah Azam is out on bail after spending 23 months in jail in connection with a case of forging age documents in 2017. In 2019, the Allahabad High Court had disqualified him from the UP assembly declaring his election null and void.

Haider Ali Khan has been declared a candidate by BJP ally Apna Dal(S) led by Union Minister Anupriya Patel. He is the grandson of Begum Noor Bano, the veteran Congress leader and former party MP of Rampur. Her rivalry with Azam has always been talked about in political circles. Congress had declared Haider its candidate on January 13, as he quit Congress to join Apna Dal(S).

Haider, a 32-year-old graduate of Oxford University (in the UK), is the son of Nawab Kazim Ali Khan aka Naved Mian – Abdullah Azam's bitter critic in Rampur and himself a four-time MLA from Suar (2002, 2007 and 2012), and Bilaspur (1996).

Haider Ali Khan extended his gratitude to Apna Dal(S) chief Anupriya Patel and NDA leaders for giving him the opportunity. "My candidature has belied the opposition propaganda of NDA being anti-minority, especially that of Samajwadi Party. By fielding me, the perception of Muslims will change towards the BJP," he said while talking to media persons.

This is for the first time that the BJP ally has fielded a Muslim candidate since 2014 Lok Sabha elections. In 2017 assembly elections, Apna Dal(S) had fielded 11 candidates – all non-Muslims – and won nine seats. This time, Apna Dal (S), however, expects to get at least 15 seats.

Haider's father Kazim Ali had contested 2017 assembly elections from the Suar seat on a BSP ticket but he slipped to number three behind BJP's Lakshmi Saini who bagged 26 per cent of the vote share.

UK-educated out to save family bastion

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Lucknow

A graduate of History from Lady Shri Ram College, a law degree from Delhi University and post-graduation from University of London, Iqra Hassan, at present, doesn't hold any other thought other than to wrest Kairana assembly seat for Samajwadi Party on behalf of brother Nahid, languishing in jail in connection with a case under the Gangster Act.

As Nahid Hassan, who had been absconding in connection with the cases related to Kairana migration issue since a year, was arrested immediately after he filed his nomination papers on January 14, 2021. He was produced in Shamli MP/MLA court and was sent to 14-day judicial custody. Later his bail plea was rejected prolonging his jail stay.

Meanwhile, SP – under attack for fielding Nahid, with a dozen-and-a-half criminal cases lodged against him – has debuted his younger sister to step in to spearhead her brother's election campaign.

Iqra, currently consolidating support for her brother, has filed papers in her name as well from the same seat to retain the Hassan family stronghold in case of any eventuality and Nahid fails to contest.

Their mother Tabassum Hassan has represented Kairana in Lok Sabha as a BSP MP in 2009 followed by in 2018 when she drubbed the BJP's Mriganka Singh in by-poll. However, in 2019 she lost the Lok Sabha seat to BJP's Pradeep Kumar. The BJP has fielded Mriganka Singh, daughter of late BJP MP Hukum Singh from the seat.

BJP OLD GUARD IN BENGAL IRKED AT ACTION AGAINST LEADERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

A day after the BJP state leadership issued show-cause notice to two former functionaries, including former vice-president Jay Prakash Majumdar and former secretary Ritesh Tiwari, for expressing their discontent in public, dissidents in the saffron camp's Bengal chapter are gearing up for securing support in their favour.

Union minister and BJP MP from Bongaon, Shantanu Thakur, one of the dissidents who is a representative of Matuas, the Hindu religious sect comprising scheduled caste refugees from Bangladesh, made it clear that he would not retreat and said many other disgruntled functionaries would hold meetings with him and questioned whether the party would show-cause all of them.

Other than the Matuas, many BJP workers became vocal against the party's recent rejig giving no room for the party's old workers. Five MLAs from Junglemahal, BJP's another stronghold other than Matua, dominated pockets, already left the party's social media group.

Sena forgot Balasaheb's ideology: Fadnavis

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

SHIV SENA and BJP are at loggerheads over Hindutva ideology. Both claim that their ideology is pure and hardcore.

Replying to Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray's criticism, former CM Devendra Fadnavis of BJP on Monday said his party was at the forefront of the Ram temple construction and Babri mosque demolition movement. He added that Sena was nowhere in the picture back then.

Leader of Opposition Fadnavis said the alliance between Sena and BJP was formed by the late Balasaheb Thackeray. "By saying that Sena wasted its 25 years with BJP, Thackeray wants to say that Balasaheb made the mistake of allying with BJP. As long as Balasaheb was there, he never spoke against the Sena-BJP alliance. He wanted it so that Hindus of this country could be united. But Sena forgot all this and joined hands with Congress," Fadnavis said.

Maharashtra CM Thackeray had criticised BJP, saying that their 25-year alliance with them was a waste of time. He said BJP was about to finish them politically and that is why Sena joined hands with Congress and NCP. "Had Sena fought elections during Babri demolition, today we would have had a PM in Delhi. But we made a sacrifice for BJP. It was decided that BJP would play the main role in Delhi and Sena in the state. But BJP violated the norm and tried to finish Sena," Thackeray said.

Fadnavis added that Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi never tweeted anything on the eve of Balasaheb's birth anniversary. "If Sena has a real alliance with Congress, then ask Congress to do this."

As Ukraine crisis mounts, NATO bolsters its eastern European flank

Sends ships, jets as US, EU look to coordinate tough response to Russia's possible invasion

BRUSSELS

NATO said on Monday it was sending jets and ships to bolster its eastern European flank, as the US and EU looked to coordinate a tough response to Russia if it invades Ukraine.

Tensions have soared over Russia's deployment of some 100,000 troops and heavy armour at its neighbour's borders, despite the Kremlin's insistence it is not planning a new incursion.

The United States, Britain and Australia ordered diplomats' families to leave Kyiv, while France told its citizens to avoid non-essential travel to Ukraine. But both Kyiv and the European Union's foreign policy chief said any withdrawal of diplomatic personnel appeared premature, amid doubts over how imminent any attack could be.

Top US diplomat Antony Blinken was to dial in to a meeting of EU counterparts in Brussels to brief them on his meeting Friday with Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov, where the two sides failed to make a breakthrough but agreed to keep talking.

The US is trying to marshal its allies to prepare an unprecedented package of sanctions for Moscow if its sends in more of its forces – and European Union members insist they could hit the Kremlin with "massive consequences" within days if needed.

The US-led NATO alliance said its members were placing troops "on standby" and sending ships and jets to bolster eastern Europe's defences in response to the Russian buildup, pointing to recent decisions by Denmark, Spain and the Netherlands to mobilise forces. "NATO will continue to take all necessary measures to protect and defend all allies," NATO chief Jens Stoltenberg said.

The Kremlin accused the alliance of ramping up tensions through "information hysteria" and "concrete actions", adding that the risk of an offensive by Ukrainian troops against pro-Russia separatists was "very high."

EU foreign ministers will sound out Blinken over a written response Washington has committed to provide to Moscow this week after the Kremlin laid down a series of security demands that would stop Ukraine joining NATO and roll back the alliance's forces in eastern Europe.

The EU's foreign policy chief Josep Borrell said the bloc has as yet no plans to pull diplomatic personnel out of Kyiv, adding there was no need to "dramatise" the situation while talks with Russia continued.

The EU, in consultation with the US and other allies, is pushing to put together a package of sanctions against Moscow that it hopes will help deter Russia from any military action.

The 27-nation bloc faces a complex task compiling its raft of measures as its members have starkly differing approaches and ties to Russia.

The new government in Germany has faced criticism from Kyiv over its refusal to send arms to Ukraine and hesitation over calls to cut Moscow from the global SWIFT payment system. AFP

US, NATO ramping up tensions, says Kremlin

Moscow: The Kremlin on Monday accused the United States and NATO of ramping up tensions after the US-led military bloc said it was bolstering Europe's eastern defences amid the Ukraine crisis. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said Washington and NATO were escalating tensions through "information hysteria" and "concrete actions," adding that the risk of an offensive by Ukrainian troops against Moscow-backed separatists was "very high." "We live in an aggressive environment," Peskov told reporters during a conference call, adding that President Vladimir Putin was taking "necessary measures" to protect the country.

Ukraine invasion 'could be new Chechnya': UK PM

London: Russia risks creating a "new Chechnya" if it invades Ukraine, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson said on Monday, warning of a protracted and violent conflict there. Johnson said he did not think an invasion was inevitable, despite what he described as "gloomy" intelligence about the build-up of Russian forces on the border with Ukraine. But he told reporters: "Invading Ukraine, from a Russian perspective, is going to be a painful, violent and bloody business. "I think it's very important that the people in Russia understand this could be a new Chechnya." AFP

Mutinous soldiers detain Burkina Faso president

OUAGADOUGOU

THE president of Burkina Faso was arrested on Monday and detained by soldiers along with members of his cabinet, security sources said, one day after troops staged a mutiny in the jihadist-wracked country.

Soldiers rose up at several army bases across the West African state on Sunday, demanding the sacking of the military top brass and more resources to fight the Islamist insurgency that erupted in 2015.

President Roch Marc Christian Kabore, in power since 2015 and who won re-election in 2020 vowing to prioritise the fight against the insurgency, has faced rising public anger about failure to stop the bloodshed.

"President Kabore, the head of parliament and the ministers are effectively in the hands of the soldiers" on Monday at the Sangoule Lamizana barracks in the capital Ouagadougou, a security source said. A second security source confirmed the arrest.

The situation was tense and confused in the capital, where mobile internet had been cut on Sunday, making it difficult to verify rumours of a coup in progress.

Around 10 hooded troops deployed in front of the headquarters of the national broadcaster RTB on Monday, but it was not immediately clear if they were from the mutineers or had been sent in by the government.

Entertainment programmes were broadcast on television. Burkina Faso has seen several coups or attempted coups. AFP

Stella Moris, Julian Assange's partner, makes a statement in London on Monday | AFP

ASSANGE ALLOWED TO APPEAL US EXTRADITION DECISON

LONDON

WIKILEAKS founder Julian Assange was on Monday given permission to appeal a decision to extradite him to the United States where he could face a lifetime in prison.

Washington wants to put the 50-year-old Australian on trial in connection with the publication of 500,000 secret military files relating to the US-led wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The High Court in London in December overturned a lower court's ruling not to send him to the United States on the grounds he would be a suicide risk.

But lawyers for Assange then challenged the decision, arguing that the country's highest court should rule on "points of law of general public importance".

"The respondent's application to certify a point of law is granted," said judges Ian Burnett and Timothy Holroyde in a written ruling.

The judges stated that they themselves were not granting him a right of appeal at the Supreme Court but Assange had the right to do so himself.

It is now for the Supreme Court to decide whether to take the case. Assange's fiancee and the mother of his two young children, Stella Moris, emerged from the court smiling and visibly relieved.

"What happened in court today is precisely what we wanted to happen," she said.

"The situation now is that the Supreme Court has to decide whether it will hear the appeal. But make no mistake, we won today in court.

"If there were justice, the crimes that Julian exposed — war crimes, the killing of innocent civilians — would not be impugned. AFP

Google tracking data without users' permission: US law suits

WASHINGTON

A GROUP of top US justice officials accused Google in lawsuits Monday of tracking and profiting from users' location data, despite leading consumers to think they could protect their privacy on the tech giant's services.

Google builds detailed profiles and sells highly targeted advertising with data collected from its billions of users -- with location being a key piece of information, argued the suits that seek to block the alleged practices.

"Google falsely led consumers to believe that changing their account and device settings would allow customers to protect their privacy," said Karl Racine, the attorney general in the nation's capital Washington.

These suits are the latest legal threats against Google and other US Big Tech giants, which have long faced probes and court cases but a lack of new national laws that would regulate their businesses.

Attorneys general from Indiana, Washington and Texas were to file suits making the same allegations against the tech colossus.

Google said the officials' claims were inaccurate and based on outdated assertions about its settings.

Racine argued that from 2014 to at least 2019, Google claimed that users could turn off their "Location History" setting and "the places you go are no longer stored." "That is false. Even when Location History is off, Google continues to collect and store users' locations," Racine's office said in a statement. AFP

FIRST WOMAN JUDGE OF PAK SC SWORN IN

ISLAMABAD

JUSTICE Ayesha Malik on Monday took oath as the first woman judge of Pakistan's Supreme Court, in what can be described as a watershed moment in the judicial history of the conservative Muslim-majority country.

Chief Justice Gulzar Ahmed administered the oath to 55-year-old Justice Malik in a ceremony held at the ceremonial hall of the Supreme Court, which was attended by a large number of apex court judges, the attorney general, lawyers, officials of the Law and Justice Commission and others.

Talking to reporters after the ceremony, Chief Justice Ahmed said that Justice Malik was competent enough to become a Supreme Court judge and that no one deserves any credit for her elevation.

Information Minister Fawad Chaudhry congratulated Justice Ayesha on her "landmark elevation." "A powerful picture symbolises women empowerment in Pakistan,' Fawad tweeted alongside the picture of the oath-taking ceremony, adding that he hopes Justice Ayesha will be an asset to the 'judicial hierarchy'. PTI

On free fall mode: Paytm, Zomato, Nykaa tank 20%

Three stocks wiped out ₹1.25 lakh cr of investors since their listing

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

WHAT it appears as another dot-com crash, share prices of new-age internet-run companies continue to fall at an alarming pace. On Monday, three big companies- Zomato, Nykaa and Paytm- were under tremendous selling pressure and tanked as much as 20%.

Investors have now lost around ₹1.20 lakh crore in these three companies since they got listed on the domestic bourses at rich valuations.

Paytm, which had launched India's largest IPO in November 2021, alone has wiped out about ₹80,000 crore of investors' wealth as its market cap has now slipped below 60,000 crore-mark. At its issue price of ₹2150, Paytm's m-cap was pegged nearly ₹1.40 lakh crore.

Zomato and Nykaa, the two companies whose m-cap had breached ₹1 lakh crore-mark on their respective listing day, also saw their valuation going down in the sell-off season. Zomato's m-cap on Monday was little lower than ₹72,000 crore while Nykaa's m-cap stands at ₹82,000 crore. From their peak level, the fall in m-cap is much more as the two firms valuation was hovering around ₹1.20 lakh crore level during mid/late November'21.

Individual stock wise, shares of Zomato saw maximum bloodbath on Monday.

After a dreadful Friday, Zomato fell nearly 20% to close the Monday session at ₹91.40 on the BSE. The stock of the foodtech giant has plunged 27% in past two trading days and if industry pundits are to be believed, its valuation now stands lower than that of rival Swiggy.

Zomato has tanked 45% from its 52-week high of ₹169.10 hit on November 16, 2021.

FSN E-Commerce Ventures (Nykaa) also hit a new low of ₹1,693 on Monday and closed session 13% lower at ₹1,735. The stock price of Nykaa has shed 33% from its record high of ₹2,574 (November 26, 2021).

Paytm, meanwhile, touched a new low of ₹881 on Monday, lower that what Macquarie analysts had predicted. It closed the session 4.43% lower at ₹917. Currently, the stock is trading 55% lower from its all-time high of ₹1,961.05.

"Investors in high value new-age tech stocks are paying the price for irrational exuberance. Some of these beaten down stocks may offer long-term value," said D VK Vijayakumar, chief investment strategist at Geogit.

Tatas likely to takeover AI on Jan 27

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TATA Sons is expected to take operational ownership of national carrier Air India this week, officials aware of the development said on Monday. This comes more than three months after the Tatas had emerged as the winning bidder of the airline.

According to Air India officials, the airline will share its balance sheet with the Tata Group on Monday (Jan 24) for its review, which is expected to be concluded by Wednesday.

Following this, on Thursday (January 27), the handover is likely to take place. The closing date of the balance sheet has been kept January 20.

"The closing balance sheet as of 20th January has to be provided today (Monday) 24th January so that it can be reviewed by Tatas and any changes can be effected on Wednesday," Vinod Hejmadi, Director Finance at Air India, said in an email to employees. It added the next three days will be hectic and requested the airline employees to give their best before the airline gets divested. "We may have to work late in the night to complete the task given to us," the mail read.

The government had confirmed the 100% sale of Air India to Talace Private Limited, which is a subsidiary of the Tata group's holding company, for ₹18,000 crore on October 8, 2021 after a competitive bidding process that lasted for more than a year.

The government had then estimated to handover the airline by December-end but the process got delayed by a month. The Tata group will also be handed over Air India Express and a 50% stake in ground handling arm Air India SATS as part of the deal.

Telecom dept will not regulate mobile manufacturing industry, says minister

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE telecom department is not going to regulate the mobile manufacturing industry at all, said Communications and IT Minister Ashwani Vaishnaw on Monday. The minister, while releasing the vision document on electronic manufacturing, mentioned that the telecom department will continue to remain the light touch regulation body which it currently is, and regime is not going to change.

"There is a fear among the industry leaders that the telecom ministry has a very regulatory kind of mindset. If the telecom ministry starts regulating the mobile manufacturing industry then it will become very difficult for the industry to grow at the pace which it wants to grow. I am repeating it for the sake of record here that the telecom department is not going to enter into mobile manufacturing at all. It will not regulate it. It will continue to remain the light touch regulation which is currently there," said Vaishanw.

The telecom department is not going to enter into mobile manufacturing at all. It will not regulate it. It will continue to remain the light touch regulation which is currently there

Ashwani Vaishnaw, Telecom minister

The Ministry of Electronics and IT is the nodal agency to manage matters related to mobile manufacturing.

The second edition of the vision document, titled '$300 bn Sustainable Electronics Manufacturing & Exports by 2026' provides a year-wise break-up and production projections for various products that will lead India's transformation into a $300 billion electronics manufacturing powerhouse.

Mobile manufacturing that is expected to cross $100 billion annual production, up from the current $30 billion is expected to constitute nearly 40% of this ambitious growth. Followed by electronics hardware & IT along with industrial electronics at $25 bn each and strategic electronics $11.5 billion.

To reach the target, the government is also mulling to tweak the labour law. The minister said when he sought advice from the industry captains, they suggested having large factories where fourty thousand to one lakh workers can work and housing campus for labourers. "All these require a lot of change in labour regulation. Thus, I met the labour ministry and he seems to be very positive on it. He feels that this is highly doable," said Vaishnaw.

Swiggy raises $700 m; valuation crosses $10.7 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

FOOD delivery giant Swiggy on Monday raised $700 million in new funding led by Invesco. With this funding, Swiggy has become a decacorn as valuation crossed over $10.7 billion. Start-ups that exceed $10 billion valuation are called decacorns.

New investors such as Baron Capital Group, Sumeru Venture, IIFL AMC Late Stage Tech Fund, Kotak, Axis Growth Avenues AIF- I and Sixteenth Street Capital, among others, participated in the round.

Apart from Swiggy, edtech giant Byju's is the most valuable start-up with $21 billion.

The investment comes at a time when the adoption of food and online grocery is accelerating and the consumer demand for Swiggy's services continue to grow. Also, Swiggy is raising this fund six months after getting $1.25 billion funding.

This funding will help Swiggy take on its rivals Zomato, Flipkart, Dunzo and Amazon. Also, this fund raising comes on the same day when Zomato's shares plummeted over 19% on Monday, and the company is now valued at about $9.72 billion, less than Swiggy.

While the food delivery business has nearly doubled in gross order value in the last year, this fundraise will enable Swiggy to accelerate growth on the core platform and make investments to grow Instamart.

In December last year, Swiggy invested $700 million in Instamart, which will reach an annualised GMV run rate of $1 billion in the next three quarters. The company will also further strengthen its investments in the broader ecosystem.

"The GMV our food delivery business achieved in 40 months, took Instamart just 17 months, demonstrating the platform benefits of Swiggy. We will double down on this to build more categories in line with our mission of offering unparalleled convenience to consumers," said Sriharsha Majety, CEO.

FItch: Fuel demand to stay moderately strong in Q4

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA'S petroleum product demand to stay moderately strong in the fourth quarter of FY22 as easing of Covid-related curbs boosts economic activity, says Fitch Rating.

The rating agency, however, mentioned that recovery expectations remain subject to further restrictions due to the risk of a resurgence of Covid cases in India with the emergence of new variants.

"We expect the economic recovery to support higher throughput at Indian oil marketing companies – Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited, Indian Oil Corporation Ltd and Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited – and at refineries, such as, HPCL-Mittal Energy Limited," said the rating agency.

The agency expects improved demand to reach prepandemic levels in 4QFY22, but the full financial year's demand is still 2-4% below that in FY20.

In its 'India Oil & Gas Watch' report, Fitch said capex is likely to stay high as oil marketing companies expand their refining capacity and retail networks, and upstream companies enhance production. "We expect stable crude oil production, which should marginally increase in FY23 as upstream producers continue to invest in exploration and development."

Large, mid-size cotton spinners to see record profits in FY22

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

LARGE and mid-scale spinning companies are set to report a robust double-digit growth in revenues and all-time high profits in FY22, with 400-600 basis points improvement in operating margins, according to ratings agency ICRA.

Indian cotton spinners are riding high on strong demand and realisations and have reported multi-year high operating profits in the past four quarters, even as cotton fibre prices increased parallelly.

Jayanta Roy, Senior Vice-President & Group Head, Corporate Sector Ratings, ICRA, says, companies which had higher stocks of lower cost cotton from the previous season benefitted more in terms of profitability in H1 FY2022.

"This apart, inclusion of all cotton yarn exports under Remission of Duties and Taxes on Exported Products (RoDTEP) scheme from January 2021 onwards (as notified in August 2021) has also supported margins as well as price competitiveness of domestic spinners in international markets," Roy said.

The slight decline in December 2021 aside, cotton yarn prices remained on a rising trend in the current fiscal, touching all-time highs in recent months, said the ratings agency.

"Even though cotton prices also increased during nine months of FY22, continued increase in realisations led average spot contribution margins for 9M FY2022 to decadal highs."

On the exports front, it said, following a 5% growth in FY21 despite the pandemic impact, India's cotton yarn exports surged 47% Y-o-Y in H1 FY22 led by 130% Y-o-Y increase in exports to Bangladesh.

DealShare to turn unicorn with fresh funding round; targets 10X growth

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

SOCIAL commerce company DealShare is in advanced talks to raise funds, and with the fresh round of funding, the company will join the elite unicorn club.

In July 2021, DealShare raised $144 million funding, and it was valued at $455 million. Till now, the company has raised a total of $183 million. The platform is funded by Tiger Global, WestBridge Capital and Alpha Wave Incubation, DST Global, Matrix Partners India, Z3Partners, and Alteria Capital.

In an interaction with TNIE, Sourjyendu Medda, Founder, Chief Business Officer, and Chief Financial Officer, DealShare, said, "We are at the closing stages of fundraising."

DealShare, which offers grocery and home essential products with low prices and with vernacular browsing, aims to grow 10X this year. It clocked about $700 million gross-revenue run rate in 2021. Having presence in 10 states and over 100 cities, it is targeting to expand to 20 states and 300 cities and towns.

E-commerce businesses, especially grocery platforms, have benefited immensely because of the pandemic. "When we started in 2018, e-commerce penetration in grocery was very less and now it is close to 1% and growing at a very fast pace," Medda said.

There are many social commerce platforms in India such as Meesho and CityMall and models like 'Reseller' and 'Community buying' are seeing traction in India.

From two lakh sq. feet in December 2020, DealShare's warehousing space has reached over 20 lakh sq feet at present with a network of over 80 warehouses. It serves over 3 lakh orders a day across 1000 pin codes.

Accenture's new study says the $492 billion global social commerce industry is expected to grow three times as fast as traditional e-commerce to $1.2 trillion by 2025. And growth will be driven by Gen Z and millennial social media users. Also, another report points out that India will have 228 million social commerce consumers by 2022.

Medda said, "Social commerce has not been understood very well in India. But if you look worldwide, especially in China and Western countries, the social commerce model is the growth engine of e-commerce today. In India too, it is the growth engine and this model works well when there is a mass population with low per capita income."

Mandhana ICC women's Cricketer of the Year

India opener Smriti Mandhana was named as the ICC Women's Cricketer of the Year for the second time for her stellar run of form across formats in 2021. Mandhana, who also made it to the ICC T20 women's Team of the Year, pipped fellow nominees Tammy Beaumont of England, Lizelle Lee of South Africa and Gaby Lewis of Ireland to win the Rachael Heyhoe Flint Trophy.

India's exit raises doubts about future

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

IN two words, India's goalkeeper Aditi Chauhan summed up the sentiment of the women's national team. "Absolutely devastated," she tweeted after India's game against Chinese Taipei was cancelled due to a Covid outbreak in the Indian camp.

What it also meant was that India's campaign in the AFC Women's Asian Cup had come to an abrupt end with AFC officially announcing it on Monday. "Following the cancellation of the AFC Women's Asian Cup India 2022 Group A match between Chinese Taipei and India, which was scheduled to take place at the D.Y. Patil Stadium in Navi Mumbai on January 23, India is considered to have withdrawn from the competition in accordance with Article 4.1 of the 'Special Rules Applicable to AFC Competitions during the COVID-19 pandemic'," the AFC stated.

It drew an equally emotional response from defender Dalima Chhibber. "Speechless, heartbroken and sad," she posted on Twitter. After two years of preparation which saw them travel across the world and playing friendlies against the likes of Brazil, all of it seems to have come to nothing.

The players were also involved in a six-month preparatory camp in Jamshedpur. Head coach Thomas Dennerby had even suggested that the team could reach the quarterfinal as expectations were high. "This would have been like a World Cup for these girls. It was supposed to be the biggest moment of their lives and they had sacrificed so much for it by being away from home and putting training so hard. It is extremely sad that it ended this way but we need to ensure that this group of players have something to look forward to," said a former women's national team captain. "All matches of India are now cancelled and considered null and void pursuant to Article 6.5.5 of the Competition Regulations," further read the AFC statement which means India's representation in the event has been chalked off.

STEFANOS Tsitsipas won a titanic five-set duel with American Taylor Fritz to advance to the quarterfinals of the Australian Open on Monday. Tsitsipas was staring at defeat trailing two sets to one before he fought back to beat the 20th seed Fritz 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 in 3hr 23min of classic late-night tennis on Rod Laver Arena.

The Greek World No 4 has now reached the quarterfinals for the third time and will face Italy's 11th seed Jannik Sinner, who accounted for Australia's Alex De Minaur in straight sets. Tsitsipas is yet to win a Grand Slam title. "It was an epic match. I gave everything out on the court today, I am very proud of myself with the way I fought and the way I stayed consistent in the moments that were close and crucial," Tsitsipas said.

He was joined in the quarterfinals by Daniil Medvedev but Aryna Sabalenka and Simona Halep exited the draw.

An annoyed Medvedev lost his cool in the heat of a tetchy four-set battle with big-serving American Maxime Cressy to reach the last eight. The Russian second seed took a medical timeout to have his lower back massaged and had some heated exchanges with the chair umpire before seeing out the win.

Sabalenka, chasing a maiden Major, lost after squandering four match points in an epic tussle against Kaia Kanepi. Kanepi will be joined in the quarters by Alize Cornet who felled former world No 1, Simona Halep. In energy-sapping conditions, the former, who was very emotional after the win, won 6-4, 3-6, 6-4. "It feels amazing. That battle I had with Simona today and the heat," said Cornet. "After 30 minutes we were both dying and we kept going for two-and-a-half hours."

Great slams T-shirt ban

Martina Navratilova called a decision by the organisers to prevent fans wearing "Where is Peng Shuai?" t-shirts "pathetic", but organisers refused to back down from their controversial stance on Monday. Video emerged on Sunday of security staff ordering spectators to remove shirts and a banner in support of the Chinese player at Melbourne Park.

Taylor says he faces ICC ban for bribe

AFP @Harare

FORMER Zimbabwe cricket captain Brendan Taylor revealed on Monday in a tweet he took cocaine, a $15,000 bribe from an Indian businessman to fix matches and that he faces a multiple-year ban from international cricket.

"The ICC (International Cricket Council) are taking the decision to impose a multi-year ban on my international cricketing career," he tweeted, adding he didn't fix any matches.

Tayloe said in October 2019 he was invited by an Indian businessman to discuss "sponsorships and the potential launch of a T20 competition in Zimbabwe and was advised that I would be paid USD$15 000 for the journey".

The invitation came when they had not received salaries for six months and there were concerns about not being able to continue playing internationally. He undertook the trip despite feeling "little wary"

During drinks, he was offered cocaine which the businessman and his colleagues were taking and said he "foolishly took the bait". "The following morning, the same men entered my hotel room and showed me a video taken of me the night before doing cocaine and told me that if I did not spot fix at international matches for them, the video would be released to the public," he said.

Acute Covid may end in 2022: WHO

The chief warned against the assumption of an endgame; equitable vax access is the key

COVID

GENEVA: The head of the WHO is warning that conditions remain ideal for more Covid variants to emerge and said it's dangerous to assume that Omicron is the last one or that "we are in the endgame," while saying the acute phase of the pandemic could still end this year—if some key targets are met.

Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, WHO's director-general, laid out an array of achievements and concerns in global health over issues like reducing tobacco use, fighting resistance to anti-microbial treatments and risks of climate change on health. But he said "ending the acute phase of the pandemic must remain our collective priority."

"There are different scenarios for how the pandemic could play out and how the acute phase could end." Tedros told the start of a WHO executive board meeting this week. "... globally, the conditions are ideal for more variants to emerge." But he insisted that "we can end Covid-19 as a global health emergency, and we can do it this year," by reaching goals like WHO's target to vaccinate 70% of the population of each country by the middle of 2022, with a focus on people who are at the highest risk and improving testing and sequencing rates to track the virus and its emerging variants more closely.

"It's true that we will be living with COVID for the foreseeable future and that we will need to learn to manage it through a sustained and integrated system for acute respiratory diseases" to help prepare for future pandemics, he said.

Compulsory Covid tests for arrivals dropped in UK

The UK government is set to drop compulsory coronavirus tests for those arriving in England, Prime Minister Boris Johnson said on Monday, as he continues to lift curbs amid declining infections. The government currently requires British and other citizens arriving into England from most countries to take a lateral flow test for Covid-19 within two days.

France brings in vax pass for leisure and travel

New rules came into force in France on Monday requiring people to be vaccinated to enter bars, restaurants, trains and planes, after a fierce fight over details of the law in parliament. A negative test will no longer be enough to access leisure activities, some work events and long-distance travel. However, around 40,000 people had turned out for the anti-pass demonstrations this weekend

Xi'an curbs lifted, Beijing rules toughen

COVID

BEIJING: One of China's longest coronavirus lockdowns ended on Monday with authorities announcing the lifting of most restrictions in the northern Chinese city of Xi'an.

The city's 13 mn residents had been confined to homes since December 22 last year after the discovery of a Covid-19 cluster.

In Beijing, however, the authorities are ramping up already-strict virus controls after a recent spike in cases, which coincides with the traditional nationwide travel rush before the Lunar New Year.

20,100
A survey by apartment listing service RentCafe found about 20,100 apartments were built out of converted properties in the US last year, almost double the number converted in the year prior

Conversions may also play a role in easing a shortage of affordable housing, particularly in cities like Washington, where notoriously high rents are a feature of life

REFURBISHING OLD OFFICE SPACES INTO AFFORDABLE HOUSING IN THE U.S.

The offices that were once used by the US Department of Justice in downtown Washington are set to be converted into homes for hundreds of people. Such transformations of vacant office space are among a surge of "adaptive reuse" projects that swept the US property market in 2021, where developers bought hotels and offices that were struggling to get business and announced plans to turn them into apartments. Here's a look at these affordable housings

Market recovery
Converting properties could offer a way forward for US downtowns, which haven't been the same since office workers fled as Covid-19 broke out nearly two years ago, leaving landlords and local businesses struggling

Rent burdened
As of 2017, 48% of tenants were considered "rent burdened" by the US Government—meaning they paid more than 30% of their income on rent—a figure that had risen six percentage points over the preceding 16 years

From the overall perspective, we just need increased supply. By having more supply, both the home price growth will come down and the rents will come down
Lawrence Yun, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors in the US

15.8%
Despite the downturn caused by Covid-19, the median price of existing homes climbed 15.8% over the course of 2021, and by December last year the supply had hit an all-time low

Old is not gold
The US, has an excess of office spaces. With many of them dating to the 1980s, they are now too old to be attractive. They have outdated designs with space for file cabinets

Work from home
The refurbished apartments will feature co-working spaces, since many tenants will likely want to continue working from home

Not the panacea | While expanding inventory has been shown to relieve price pressures in the market, this might not be a solution to the housing crisis, says Michael Abrams, MD of Foulger-Pratt, a property development firm

Anti-polio drive in Pak amidst Covid case rise

HEALTH

ISLAMABAD: Pakistani authorities on Monday launched a nationwide anti-polio campaign even as Covid infections surge.

About 1,50,000 health workers are taking part in the five-day, anti-polio drive to inoculate 22.4 million children under age 5, according to a statement issued by Shahzad Beg, the coordinator for polio program. The previous campaign took place weeks ago when Pakistan witnessed decline in Covid-19 cases.

Authorities hope the latest campaign will help making Pakistan a polio-free nation. Last year, Pakistan reported only one polio case from Baluchistan province. Pakistan and Afghanistan are the only countries in the world where polio remains endemic and the disease can cause partial paralysis in children.

Pakistan for 25 years has been carrying out regular inoculation campaigns in which health workers go door-to-door to give the polio drops to children. Most of the workers are women, as they can get better access to mothers and children.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Bird rescue after oil spill

ECOLOGY

A Lima zoo is racing to save dozens of seabirds, including protected penguins, after 6,000 barrels of crude oil spilled off Peru's coast due to waves from a volcanic eruption in the South Pacific. More than 40 birds, including Humboldt penguins—listed as vulnerable by the International Union for Conservation of Nature—were brought to the Parque de Las Leyendas zoo after being rescued from polluted beaches and nature reserves. "We have never seen anything like this in the history of Peru," biologist Liseth Bermudez told AFP, while tending to a bird. "We didn't think it was going to be of this magnitude." A team of veterinarians is caring for the birds, bathing them with special detergents to remove the suffocating oil. The animals have also been given antifungal and anti-bacterial drugs, as well as vitamins.

X-ray of bullet wound as NFT

TECHNOLOGY

A French woman who survived the 2015 attacks on the Bataclan concert hall in Paris is "extremely shocked" after learning that her surgeon was attempting to sell an X-ray of her injuries online. A senior orthopedic surgeon at the Georges Pompidou hospital in Paris was revealed at the weekend to be offering an image of her forearm, which shows a Kalashnikov bullet lodged near to the bone, as an NFT digital artwork. He faces legal action and a disciplinary charge having not asked for permission from his patient. "This doctor, not content with breaking the duty of medical secrecy towards this patient, thought it would be a good idea to describe the private life of this young woman, making her perfectly identifiable," lawyer Elodie Abraham said in a statement sent to AFP.

Cancer cure & immune response

MEDICINE

Patients with cancer who receive chemotherapy and some targeted treatment may mount an inadequate immune response to Covid-19 vaccination. Researchers at Mayo Clinic Cancer Center have found that targeted therapies, such as CDK4/6 inhibitors and those that targeted B cells, also may cut Covid vax response. "It is important for patients with cancer who are receiving chemotherapy to get a Covid-19 vaccine," said Saranya Chumsri, a Mayo Clinic heematologist. Chumsri noted that this advice also applies to patients with cancer who are taking a CDK 4/6 inhibitors. While CDK 4/6 inhibitors are not conventionally considered to be as immunosuppressive as chemotherapy, Chumsri found that patients with breast cancer who take these drugs exhibited less optimal neutralising antibody activity.

3D printing can cut concrete use by 75%

TECHNOLOGY

GUWAHATI: A team of researchers at the Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati has developed a 3D printed urban furniture using construction material made from local industrial wastes.

Concrete 3D printing is gaining momentum in the building and construction industries. Recent developments in this field such as 3D printed modular houses, pedestrian footbridges, buildings, low-cost toilet units have the potential to initiate a paradigm change in the practice of construction.

The IIT-G research group used a specially-developed printable concrete containing industrial wastes as binders to build 3D printed furniture with a seating height of 0.4m, a width of 0.4m, and arch-shaped support that was modelled and sliced using SolidWorks and Simplify3D, respectively. Traditionally, these structures were mold casted that requires more concrete material, labour and formwork preparation.

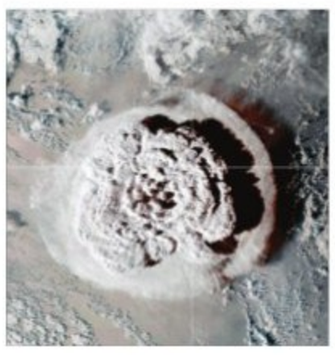
Tonga eruption equal to several Hiroshimas

NATURE



NUKU'ALOFA: The Tonga volcanic eruption unleashed explosive forces that dwarfed the power of the Hiroshima atomic bomb, NASA scientists said, as survivors on Monday described how the devastating Pacific blast "messed up our brains".

NASA Earth Observatory said the Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai volcano spewed debris as high as 40 kilometres into the atmosphere during the eruption that triggered huge tsunami waves.

"We think the amount of energy released by the eruption was equivalent to somewhere between five to 30 megatons (five to 30 million tonnes) of TNT," NASA scientist Jim Garvin said in a press release.

NASA said the eruption was hundreds of times stronger than the US atomic bomb dropped on the Japanese city of Hiroshima in August 1945, which was estimated to be about 15 kilotons (15,000 tonnes) of TNT.

The agency said the eruption "obliterated" the volcanic island about 65 kilometres north of the Tongan capital Nuku'alofa. It blanketed the island kingdom of about 100,000 in a layer of toxic ash, poisoning drinking water, destroying crops and completely wiping out at least two villages.

It also claimed at least three lives in Tonga and resulted in the drowning deaths of two beachgoers in Peru after freak waves hit the South American country. Peruvian authorities have declared an environmental disaster after the waves hit an oil tanker offloading near Lima, creating a huge slick along the coast.

In Tonga, the scale of destruction still remains unclear after communications to the remote islands were knocked out.

Nuku'alofa-based journalist Mary Lyn Fonua said locals were still coming to terms with the scale of the disaster. "It's so beyond what anyone here has ever experienced," she told AFP.

BACK TO BOOKS

Author who read unaffordable books at library & a debut novelist bag Carnegie awards

LITERATURE

NEW YORK: Receiving a literary prize from the American Library Association is a kind of homecoming for the essayist-poet Hanif Abdurraqib.

"When I was young, I treated the library as a place to pass time, to get lost in books that I could have otherwise not afforded to own, music that I could not have afforded to have," Abdurraqib, 38, a recipient of an Andrew Carnegie Medal for "A Little Devil in America: Notes in Praise of Black Performance," said in a recent interview,

On Sunday, the library association awarded Abdurraqib the medal for excellence in nonfiction and gave the fiction prize to 25-year-old Tom Lin, the youngest ever Carnegie winner, for his debut novel "The Thousand Crimes of Ming Tsu." Each author receives $5,000 and will be honored in June at the association's annual conference.

Abdurraqib is a Columbus, Ohio native who returned there a few years ago, and the library system has been a thread throughout—whether a quiet place for his imagination, a refuge during times he was short of money or a source for a favourite book. He currently lives near the Martin Luther King Branch of the Columbus Metropolitan Library and stops by often. "I made a conscious decision to cut down on the amount of books in my home over the past two years, which means I get to return to the delight of getting books from the library—being on a waiting list and getting the email that my time has come," he says. "All of that stuff. It's like returning to the version of myself that looked at the place with a sense of endless wonder, which is cool."

Abdurraqib's other books include the poetry collections "The Crown Ain't Worth Much" and "A Fortune for Your Disaster." Last year, he was named a recipient of a MacArthur Foundation "genius grant."

Lin also has vivid library memories, notably the children's section of the Flushing branch of the Queens Borough Public Library in New York City, "this beautiful triangular building," and a favourite chair that was high enough so that his feet barely touched the ground. Now a PhD student in English at the University of California, Davis makes frequent use of the campus library, "walking in with a stack of books to return and walking out with an equally tall stack of new books to read."

GIVING IT A SHOT

Up-and-coming golfer Avani Prashanth (15) has been invited to play at the prestigious Augusta National Women's Amateur Championship in USA

ASHIM SUNAM

IF one happens to visit 15-year-old golfer Avani Prashanth's home in the city, the trophy cabinet provides a glimpse of her talent. There are around 90 trophies which she has won since she began her golfing training in 2012. In fact, the cabinet runneth over with her collection of prizes with some of them being accommodated in other rooms of the house.

With the rapid stride Avani is taking up the sport at such a young age, the need of another cabinet is sure to arise. Some of her titles include a couple of Hero Women's Pro Golf Tour and the All India Ladies Amateur title among others. However, the biggest highlight of her career came unannounced recently when she was invited for the prestigious Augusta National Women's Amateur Championships, scheduled in the USA from March 30 to April 2.

The competition comprises top amateur players from around the world and Avani is eager to compete against them. "I did not expect an invitation to come from Augusta. I had only played one tournament before this, which actually qualifies me for the tournament. So it came as a surprise. I am really happy and excited to play at the iconic venue. I am also confident in my game. If things go well, I will be able to get very good scores," said Avani, who is a Class 9 student at Greenwood High International School.

Trophies won by Avani Prashanth

One should not be surprised with the air of confidence she oozes in her game. In fact, she took up the sport when she was just three years old. Her father MS Prashanth, who also loves golf, was taken aback when Avani started to hit the ball quite well with good hand-eye coordination — a key point in golf. This was in Manesar, Gurgaon. In her initial tryst with the sport, she spent hours at the golf range with dedication and that is how her journey began.

"So what convinced us then and there was the kind of dedication she showed initially in the sport. That was an important cue. For a child of her age, it is very difficult to hold their attention in one thing for a long time, but she has been quite focused," said her father.

Avani was initially trained by coach Nathan Sundaram for a period of around seven to eight months. But for work reasons, Prashanth and family moved to Nigeria. After witnessing the kind of progress she showed in a short period, he had one condition before moving to the African nation — he wanted a golf club membership there so that Avani's training does not get hampered. In fact, she showed major progress in the next couple of years. The Bengaluru girl even made her debut in the Kids Golf International in Nigeria and triumphed in 2012. It opened the doors for her at the US Kids European Championship in Scotland, where she performed well above her age competitors too.

After returning from Nigeria in 2014 along with her family, she has been spending longer hours on the course to improve her game as well. The numerous titles are a testament of her hard work, but her real test lies in March at Augusta, where she will travel with her father.

FIT BIT

EKA HASTA PARSHVASANA

(ONE HAND SIDE STRETCH POSE)

This is beginner level yoga pose performed in a standing position, which increases energy and is also considered as a warm-up yoga pose to prepare the body for more intense poses/flows. This variation increases the stretch to the sides of the body, improving balance and coordination. Reaching one arm overhead and the other stretching to the side of the body creates space in the chest and lungs, which is therapeutic for asthma and congestion. It also creates space between the vertebrae, which improves posture and helps prepare the spine for deeper stretches and twists. Love handles are a sign of an unhealthy body. Even people who are not overweight develop love handles due to poor lifestyle choices. The best way to get rid of it is to watch your diet and exercise regularly. Include side stretches in your workout to burn your belly fat and strengthen your core muscles.

STEPS

- Begin in Tadasana (Mountain Pose).
- Inhale and move your left arm towards the ceiling while expanding your upper ribs.
- Straighten your back and look at your palm. Exhale and bend towards your right without disturbing your lower body.
- In this this position, you can feel the stretch on the left side of your body.
- Stick your right arm to the right side of your torso.
- Stay in this pose for 3 long breaths.
- Inhale and come into Tadasana.
- Exhale and repeat the posture on your other side.

LIMITATIONS

- Avoid this if you are suffering from severe lower back, shoulder or neck injuries.
- People who are suffering from headache or heart problems should not perform this.
- Always practise within your own range of limits and abilities.
- If you have medical concerns, talk to any yoga expert before practising it.

BENEFITS

- Helps reduce stress and fatigue.
- Stretcha the sides, shoulders, arms and spine.
- Strengthens the abdominal muscles.
- Improves digestion and blood circulation.
- Improves balance as the body moves away from its centre.
- Tones the legs muscles and hip.
- Flexibility of the upper body and the hip is increased with better focus and stability.
- Relieves sciatica and reduces the effects of flat feet.
- Increases the level of concentration.

CONCERN OVER CONSENT

#MarriageStrike has created a raging debate on social media after Delhi High Court heard a case on marital rape. Here's what Bengalureans have to say

ANILA KURIAN

LAST week, the Delhi High Court listened in on a case on marital rape. Since then, a curious hashtag called #MarriageStrike has been doing the rounds on social media and to much surprise, it's not the women but the men who are striking marriage for a year as a counter to the court's proceedings.

During the hearing, Justice Rajiv Shakdher said: "When the rape law grants no exemption in case of forced intercourse with a sex worker, who chooses to withdraw consent to a belated stage, why should a wife be less powered". According to Twitterati, this statement had many worried about false accusations landing 'innocent' men in jail. They feel that such laws are a problem and would therefore empower women to take advantage of men who could never be able to prove that sex was consensual and not forced. A section of the crowd is also using the hashtag to say that they would rather opt out of the marriage if marital rape is criminalised. This has once again split the way society perceives issues faced by women.

Atikaa Ahluwalia, an intimate partner violence awareness advocate, says, "As a survivor of intimate partner violence, I have observed sexual abuse to be the least addressed of all the different kinds of abuse that takes place between partners. Almost 75 per cent of married victims and survivors I speak to have been forced into sex by their husband on recurring occasions and have been forced into sexual acts that they weren't comfortable with, inspite of explicitly refusing the same. This form of sexual abuse is more often than not left out of legal cases, family interventions and complaints due to the shame and stigma around the topic." She adds that sexual abuse by an intimate partner is as much about power and control. "But it often slips under the radar because of the gaslighting involved. If the caveat here is consent, then why is the legal contract of marriage about this law," she questions.

Entrepreneur Saritha Hegde feels this hashtag is a good way to spot potential abusers. "If you are someone who is saying that you don't want to get married because you feel like you cannot have authority over your wife, then you're better off not getting married. You think it's okay to rape your wife? That's not right. If you think the premise for your marriage is just that, then it's fundamentally flawed. Nobody wants to marry you, so please do us a favour and strike forever," she expresses.

Amitabha Sutradhr, a brand manager, says that one's sexual frustration shouldn't lead to rape, irrespective of gender. "The concept of marriage is based on trust. It is something intimate that you're sharing with someone. Therefore, the trust factor is paramount. Having said that, it shouldn't be entered without thinking. It's important to understand how you view your own self-respect and then the mutual respect you have for each other." The lack of understanding of the marital rape from institutions we look upto is what causes these issues, feels Sutradhr, adding, "Perhaps, if they have a better understanding of what is really going on and how to address it, people can work together for a better eco-system."

According to Shreya Chatterjee, consultant psychotherapist, the move by the Delhi High Court is a welcome change.

"I have worked with well-educated clients, who don't understand the severity of their actions. It's after making them understand the legal implications that they think of considering otherwise. I've also seen women who don't know that they have the right to not give consent. They are conditioned to offer themselves no matter what. Looking at all such scenarios, I'm glad that we are finally discussing this and hope it will also lead to more positive moves."

There were 66,000 tweets on #MarriageStrike within two days of the judgement. That's 66,000 self-admitted potential abusers off the marriage market and an eye-opening statistic on deep-rooted misogyny in India

Atikaa Ahluwalia, intimate partner violence awareness advocate

If you are someone who is saying that you don't want to get married because you feel like you cannot have authority over your wife, then you're better off not getting married. You think it's okay to rape your wife?

Saviour knights, kindly excuse

TWO issues related to women made headlines last fortnight. The first one was regarding a bunch of girl students wearing headscarves not being allowed to attend classes in Udupi and the second one was about Kerala's Kumbalangi being declared as a 'sanitary napkin-free village'. While the first one is about girls trying to obtain education under socially imposed restrictions, the other is where women in a rural community took a sturdy step towards aiding themselves.

Why these two incidents are significant, you may ask. The hijab incident had many liberal-thinking men saying that it should be abolished. This was vehemently opposed by men from the community practising it, who argued that while women elsewhere showcase things signifying their community, why is hijab being opposed? The debate is not showing signs of being resolved.

Every time such questions over women's attire pop up, it is amusing to see men standing in the forefront, deliberating with all their might. I saw only one write-up over this issue, carefully composed by a hijab-wearing woman who was confused over being scolded, even beaten by her father who enforced the headscarf when she attained puberty. She said she has made her peace with the headgear as a married, working woman now. In another interesting post, a prominent writer narrated how he was disturbed to see his little sister's education being discontinued due to religious restrictions and how he got her back to school (wearing a hijab) once he got a job. He said she went on to work for a bank and how both of her daughters work for institutions of international repute.

We can understand why it is important for men to defend certain practices. They spring from this urge to protect the present system, because it is convenient to the male-controlled arrangement. They rush to help, assuming they are facilitating women. They fail to notice that women's voices are not being heard in the melee. These saviours are so normalised, they are everywhere around us — in our movies, comics, stories, television, news and even on our streets.

A friend asked me why women usually do not have an instant response to an incident. A woman's expression is entirely different from that of a man. For centuries, our thoughts and opinions never mattered to the world. We are taught to respond only when asked. Oppressed communities across the world found their voice only when they decided to be heard — just like the women of Kumbalangi who took to menstrual cups once they understood they were healthy. We will decide what is best for us. It is just that on any given day, we have a thousand demons to fight and a limited choice of weapons in our arsenal. We do not need proxy combatants.

As I write, I am reminded that January 24 is National Girl Child Day. Rather than worrying about what they need to wear, we need to create a safe passage for our girl children.

Practice techniques for western vocalists

If you're starting your journey with western vocal singing, there are a few things you should know. From what to do before you begin, to basic do's and don'ts, here's what you need to be prepared for. To begin with, before you sing, it is crucial that you first warm up your voice. If you start singing at full volume directly without warming up, you can cause voice damage which will impact your performance in the long run. Here are a few more do's and don'ts if you're looking to start your western vocal journey:

DO:

- Stay hydrated
- Train with a qualified teacher who can give you the right guidance
- Practise regularly
- Maintain your voice at "speech level" volume while singing

DON'T

- Overexert your voice on the day of a performance
- Try to sing if you have a cold or a sore throat
- Try to change your natural singing voice
- Shout, talk too loudly, or strain your voice in general

(The authors run SaPa - the Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts)

As a vocalist, some of the most important things to consider are breath control and vocal technique. Here are some tips to help with these:

Breath control: Here's how you can avoid common breathing issues that singers face, like running out of breath during a song:

- Make sure that your shoulders don't rise while you're breathing. This is a sign of shallow breaths, and will put too much air pressure on your vocal cords.
- When you breathe IN, your stomach and diaphragm should expand. That is the correct and natural way of breathing.

Vocal techniques: There are many ways to ensure that you're using your voice as smoothly as possible. Try exercises like the Lip bubble vocal exercise, humming, nasal voice exercise, vowel vocal technique, and more. You can also work on exercises separately to improve your pronunciation and clarity.

As is the case with every other musical discipline, music practice takes consistency, effort, and the willingness to add more structure to your routine. Here are some general music practice tips that you will benefit from:

- Practise at the same time every day: This makes your day more structured while also training your brain to start thinking more musically at a specific time of day.
- Set intentions that you can follow through on: Break your larger musical goals down into smaller wins that you can review after three months, six months, and more. This will make your bigger picture less overwhelming, and help you track your progress more clearly.

Here's to a fun, fulfilling journey with western vocal music. All the best!

People vs Relationship

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

EVERY now and then, when their relationship is on shaky ground and things are rocky, people come around to family elders, colleagues, counsellors or other people they trust to try and save their relationship. The arguments to save the relationship can stretch anywhere from how one or the other person is dependent on it, or the innocent victim to circumstances brought upon the relationship by scheming outsiders, or there being children or dogs or others who are dependent on the relationship and need it to be solid.

Sometimes, the arguments to save the relationship are also just because the relationship itself has come to symbolise something for a larger community, especially in vulnerable groups where few such relationships last, every relationship seems so precious that even if the people in the relationship are reluctant to work on it, others around them may feel threatened by any threats to the relationship and want to protect it at all costs. This happens especially when the relationship is seen as a model relationship for others like the people in it, and they have been set up across the board for people in the general society as role models for others to look up to, aspire to be like and even imitate to enjoy a similar kind of space.

Thing is, when we build up a relationship as its own entity, we often overlook that there are real flesh and blood people in it, and it is their emotional space, their experiences, their visions for their own futures and their agency that is caught up in all the brouhaha. When we are trying to "save" the relationship, the question needs to be whether we are working on it for the people in it because they want to work on it, or because the relationship itself has become an entity, and is somehow now almost bigger than the persons involved in it, just because the names of the people in the relationship got mashed up into a single word like Brangelina or Virushka, or hyphenated into a name by itself.

When that happens, we often forget the people in the relationship altogether. People outside the relationship then even get upset and angry at the individuals who walked away from the relationship. Sometimes, celebrities who ended their relationships get accosted by the general public screaming, "How could you do this?" when they are really thinking, "How could you do this to me?" as if the end of the celebrity's relationship was a personal attack, even when they put out statements like, "Please respect our privacy while we go through this conscientious separation".

If we can pause and ask ourselves if we seriously value something over people, then we might back off and say that, of course, the people matter more than the relationship. The individual person matters. Each individual matters — not what they made together, no matter how nice it made us feel or how much hope it gave us that we too could be hyphenated or mashed with another.

Pain and forgiveness in War Room

SHILAJIT MITRA

A highlight of Unpaused: Naya Safar is War Room, a tense, uncanny moral drama set in a covid war room. Sangeeta Waghmare (Geetanjali Kulkarni) begins her work day by taking emergency calls and allotting beds to patients. One such request comes in for a man Sangeeta holds responsible for her son's suicide. The man, a school principal, was in jail; he isn't eligible for interim covid bail but is somehow out. Sangeeta has a choice to make: withhold critical, life-saving information or forge ahead with her job.

Director Ayappa KM says he based their story on media reportage from the last two years (the film is written by him, Anand Menon and Shubham). They also interviewed 5-6 employees of the 24 ward war rooms set up by the BMC across Mumbai. These are coordinators triaging in conjunction with doctors, talking to patients or relatives, enquiring after symptoms and allocating beds. They're often untrained—Sangeeta, in the film, is a maths teacher. "We tried to understand the lives of these employees," Ayappa says. "They, along with doctors and other frontline workers, were literally risking themselves to save others."

Geetanjali was a natural choice for the lead. With minimal gestures, and very few words, she conveys a lifetime of pain. The actor's presence is quietly hypnotic; you forget you're watching a fictionalized character on a predetermined path. Sangeeta isn't a sentimental figure: you feel her anguish and rage, the deep selfishness that can grip us in the midst of loss.

"It's human nature that was revealed to us during the pandemic," Geetanjali says. "These stories, these people, were all around us." War Room was shot at the Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation's (MSRTC) head office—the makers took a part of it and dressed it up with tables and chairs. The film captures the workings of a makeshift government office. The mood, though heavy, is relieved with humour. "We don't catch dogs here," Sangeeta tells a confused caller; later, a politician removes his mask to click a selfie.

"It's not the best time to critique anything openly," Ayappa says, decoding the implied satire in the film. "It has to be subtle and hidden."

As the tension mounts, the film becomes a parable for kindness. A doctor, played by Sharvari Deshpande, looks out for Sangeeta ("I liked the moments of humanity between them," Sharvari says). The ending, too, is in starkly uplifting contrast to Tassaduq Hussain's gloomy cinematography. Geetanjali contextualizes it with something from her own experience during the pandemic. "I was in my village for a long time during the lockdowns," she shares. "I was working with children—we were doing music riyaz, drawing pictures and by-hearting stories every day. It really had an impact in their lives and as well as mine, because I learned so many things from them."

Unpaused: Naya Safar is streaming on Amazon Prime Video.
